CAME TO BLOWS

Grand Master Sweeney, of the Switchmen,

Assaulted by a Disappointed Striker.

The Leader of the Organization Roughly Handled.

His Nose Broken and Face Badly Cut.

A Man Who Had Lost His Job by Following the Master's Instructions Resorts to Physical Force to Even Matters.

Buffalo, Aug. 25.—At 11 o'clock this morning Grand Master Sweeney was set upon by Arthur Quinn, a striking Nickel Plate switchman, and brutally assaulted.

Mr. Sweeney and 75 switchmen had been attending the investigation ordered by the state board of arbitration and had left the hall and were standing at the corner of Swann and Main streets.

Quinn approached and told Sweeney he was responsible for the loss of his job. Before Sweeney had time to answer, Quinn dealt him a fearful blow on the head and followed it up with several sledge hammer punches in the face.

Sweeney fell to the sidewalk and then Quinn kicked him several times.

Several bystanders interfered and pulled Quinn off Sweeney. Quinn ran away, followed by an angry mob of strikers. Quinn threatened to kill them if they followed him and they stopped the chase, and Sweeney walked to a drug store and bathed his face. He was unable to tell whether his nose had been broken by the force of the blow, but the chances are that it has.

He told a United Press reported he did not know why Quinn had hit him, but supposed it was because he had lost his job by the failure of the strike. Mr. Sweeney said it was the first time in the history of the order that he had been assaulted by any striker or any member of the organization. He had often heard threats against him, but had never been touched by a man who was disappointed over the outcome of a strike. The assault, he said, was most cowardly and unprovoked. Quinn has not yet been arrested.

FROM PORT SAID.

Port Said, Aug. 25.—The British steamer Ben Lomond, from Japan and China for New York, is discharging part of her cargo at Aden. The Ben Lomond arrived at Aden with two propellers broken and was found to be tipping.

BLAINE'S MOVEMENTS.

If Not Able to Speak He Will Write a Letter.

Portland, Me., Aug. 25.—Senator Eugene Hale was seen yesterday on his way to Saco to make a speech. Relative to Mr. Blaine's speaking in the campaign, he said that if he is well enough he would make two or three speeches in Maine beginning two weeks from Monday. If not he will write a ringing letter to the voters of this state.

Senator Hale's statement about the letter to be written by Mr. Blaine corroborates information received by ex-Speaker Reed on Monday, but confided secretly to a few friends. Mr. Reed does not think Mr. Blaine will make even a single speech, and therein differs from Senator Hale.

COL. LAMONT MUCH IMPROVED.

New York, Aug. 25.—Ex-Collector Chas. Davis, who returned from Switzerland yesterday, said that Col. Lamont was very much improved in health and was able to ride and drive and the two gentlemen spent a great deal of time together seeing the sights. Col. Lamont will return to this country next month.

CHARGED WITH SMUGGLING.

New York, Aug. 25.—Louis Straus, who claims to be a business man of St. Louis, was arrested on the Bremen steamship dock last night, charged with smuggling $500 worth of diamonds found in his possession. He will be arraigned before United States Commissioner Shields. He disclaims any intention of smuggling.

POWDERLY ON THE FAIR

The Exposition Should be Open on Sunday.

Sunday was Made for Man; Not Man for Sunday.

An Interesting Document From the Pen of the Chief of the Knights of Labor.

Philadelphia, Aug. 25.—Grand Master Workman Powderly of the Knights of Labor has issued a lengthy and interesting address to the members of the order against the closing of the world's fair on Sunday. He says that the Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath. Puritanical piety, he says, should be prohibited.

"The address concludes as follows: 'The Knights of Labor go no further than to ask that the employes of the Columbian exposition work but six days, of eight hours each, in every week.

"We have demanded that in every seven days one shall be set apart for the employe so that he may devote that day to rest, recreation or prayer, just as may please his American fancy.

"The order does no ask that the fair shall be kept closed on Sunday. We believe that if the churches of Chicago can hold out the right kind of inducements to the people they will be crowded during he continuance of the fair, whether that institution is opened on Sunday or not.

"If the people would rather go to the fair than to church they should be permitted that privilege.

"It should be borne in mind that closing the fair on Sunday will not turn a single individual toward the door of a church.

"And right here it is pertinent to remark that when the Sabbatarian and saloonkeeper of Chicago unite in demanding that the fair be kept closed on Sunday; when the disciples of God and Bacchus vie with each other in the effort to close the doors of that institution, it must be that they dread competition from that quarter more than from any other, and, if they succeed, I venture the prediction that Bacchus will have the greatest number worshipping at his shrine each Sunday.

"In all their arguments I have not noticed that the poor fellow who works is considered. No effort is being made to give him a holiday on any of the six days of the week so that he may witness the wonders of the exposition. I fear that there is more churchianity than christianity in this agitation for Sunday closing."

PROHIBS.

Tiffin, O., Aug. 25.—(Special)—A mass convention of the prohibitionists of Seneca county was held in Highland park yesterday, and was enlivened by stirring speeches, a basket picnic and a fall of rain water. The following ticket was made for the county: Commissioner, David Martin, of Tiffin; sheriff, Charles A. Norris, of Scipio; infirmary director, Charles Rhodes, of Bloom; surveyor, left blank. The party usually polls 300 votes in this county.

KENTUCKY LEGISLATURE.

A Special Session Meets in Frankfort.

Much Work for the Statesmen to Do and Some for Them to Undo.

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 25.—Although it is little more than a week since the legislature adjourned, the body convened in special extra session to-day in accordance with the proclamation issued by Gov. Brown.

The necessities which, in the opinion of the governor, exist for this somewhat extraordinary proceeding are the questioned validity of the new election law, the revenue law, the world's fair appropriation bill and other important measures passed at the last session.

It is claimed by eminent authorities that all these bills were passed in an unconstitutional manner, and high legal authority has rendered an opinion that the invalidation of the election law would probably result in the throwing out of the electoral vote of the state in the coming presidential election.

Rather than take any risk of this kind the governor decided upon the special session.

The legislature and the governor are at loggerheads and it is not unlikely that the session will last until the regular day for reconvening in November.

This, with the following session, would make the longest continuous session ever held in the state.

ESCAPED FROM JAIL.

Prisoners at Lima Take French Leave.

One of the Men Broke His Leg and Was Taken Back to Jail.

Lima, O., Aug. 25.—Five prisoners escaped from the county jail last night at 9 o'clock. Sheriff O'Neil is absent. He left Fraley Fink as turnkey. When Fink went to lock the prisoners up they rushed at him and knocked him down and hit Mrs. O'Neil, who was at the first door, with a chair.

Six of the prisoners escaped through the front door. Frank Taylor, a prisoner, jumped down the embankment in front of the sheriff's residence and broke his leg, and he was easily captured.

The other five made good their escape by scattering in every direction.

TO CORNER THE KING

Col. Dodds and His Fight in Dahomey.

Some Interesting News From Southern Africa.

A Land Rich in Commerce Which Several Governments Are Coveting.

Paris, Aug. 25.—The French squadron off the Dahomey coast bombarded Whydah and other Dahomeyan ports about the beginning of the month, and the French troops then proceeded on their expedition to the interior, under command of Col. Dodds, whose policy is to drive the king into a corner by vigorous action.

With the first arrival of reinforcements Col. Dodds began to enlarge the circle of the outposts, while fortifying at the same time the old positions.

He opend two new roads, one from Porto Novo to Sokete, on the Adjara river, near the British frontier at Lagos, the other binding Porto Novo to Dangbo, a place between the Oueme and the Adjara, near the spot where Capt. Oudard was killed in 1890.

It is said that envoys from the neighboring tribes have offered their co-operation against the Dahomeyans. Great enthusiasm prevails. Numerous desertions are taking place from the Dahomey army on account of hunger and fear.

The fine season will last until October 15. Col. Dodds has 3,000 men, being a sufficient force to hold the different stations independently of the support of the ships anchored at Kotonou and Grand Popo. Kotonou and Porto Novo are now in a thorough state of defense and Grand Popo is occupied.

The Sane, the Talisman, and other ships are free to cruise about and it is calculated that they will be able to maintain the blockade in a very effective manner.

Father Dorges, the missionary, who concluded the treaty Behanzin, in which the latter consented to recognize the French protectorate on the coast for the consideration of a subsidy of 20,000 francs per annum, has been interviewed at Nantes, where he resides.

He drew a picture of Dahomey, the conquest of which he advocates, which represents it as a commercial paradise. It is a very rich country, he says, coveted both by the English at Lagos, and the Germans at Togon. In French hands, he considers it a veratable treasure. Thus, he remarked, "Kotonou, which only contains two French commercial houses and a telegraphic station, produced in 1890, when owing to the war, business was slack, a revenue of 350,000 francs."

Several companies of the foreign legation have been sent from Algeria to Senegal, to replace the Senagelese riflemen despatched to Dahomey.

The Senagal contingent consist of 400 men formed into three companies. They are mostly veteran warriors, many of them being covered with scars received very likely, in fighting against the French. These troops are quite distant from the regular Tirailleurs of Senegal, who are completely fused with the French army. These latter form the main body of the Dahomey expedition.

Col. Dodds has full reliance in their military qualities. The expedition, under Col. Dodds, advancing from Porto Novo for Abomey, will pass by Afame, Oboa, Agany, and Kana Gome, where Behanzin has his military camp. The decisive action, it is anticipated, will take place there, and the taking of Kana Gome will be the end of hostilities. Behanzin will probably fly to the upper river unless his priests poison him, an event which appears not improbable, as a king of Dahomey must never be conquered.

TO CAPTURE HAWAII.

The Louisiana Lottery After the Island.

They Offer a Mint of Money in Return for a Charter From the Queen.

San Francisco, Aug. 25.—A passenger on the steamship Australia which arrived from Honolulu says that for some time the Louisiana lottery has had agents in Honolulu, their object being to obtain a charter from the Hawaiian legislature.

In return for the charter the company agrees to pay $1,000,000 towards the building of a cable; to run a weekly line of steamers to San Francisco; to pay one-half the expenses of the government; to pay $100,000 a year to different local enterprises, and to erect buildings for officers, directors, inspectors, etc.

The money for the preliminary payments is already in Honolulu and if the legislature accepts the proposition $500,000 will be afloat in Honolulu in 30 days.

Owing to the present state of business in the islands this would prove a veritable bonanza to Hawaii, and it is quite probable that the company will receive a charter. Still there is a strong missionary spirit in Hawaii and a fierce assault will be made on the bill when it is brought up in the legislature.

THE GRAND ARMY.

Preparations for the Washington Encampment.

The Veterans Will Be Properly Entertained at the National Capital.

Washington, Aug. 25.—The White House lot, now to be called "Grand Army place," is in the hands of the reunion committee. The grand stand will be erected in the center of the ellipse.

The spot will be dedicated on Monday, the first day of the encampment. Commander-in-Chief Palmer will introduce President Harrison, who will make a speech.

The location of the various corps is now being arranged. The big reunion tents will be stationed between the army divisions, and will be known as follows: Grant tent, seating capacity, 4,000; Sherman tent, capacity 1,300; Meade tent, capacity 1,300; Thomas tent, capacity 700; and Sheridan tent, capacity 700.

Outside the ellipse will be two tents for smaller organizations, with a capacity of 150 each, and named after Gillmore and Dahlgren.

There will be five corps reunions Monday night of encampment week. Tuesday night there will be five, Wednesday morning at 9:30, five; at 2:30, five, and at 7:30, seven. On Thursday there will be five, morning, noon and night.

Wilson and Dushane posts, G. A. R., of Baltimore, will entertain in Baltimore Eaton and John A. Andrew post, of Boston, previous to the national encampment. On Sunday, the 18th, the visitors will be met at Camden and Union stations and escorted to Dushane post hall, where dinner will be furnished.

On Monday a special train will convey the veterans to Gettysburg, where the day will be spent on the battlefield. Lunch will be served on the train.

The Baltimore posts intend the reception as a return for the courtesies extended the department of Maryland by the Eaton and Andrew posts on the occasion of a visit to Boston.

The police are somewhat troubled about the proper protection to the visitors during the encampment because of the restrictions thrown around the $9,000 appropriation by congress, which it is thought will operate as an inducement to thieves from the west to come here.

The act appropriating the money reads: "To meet the expenses for maintaining public order in the District of Columbia on the occasion of the national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, to take place in said district in September, 1892, $9,000; provided, that policemen borne on the rolls of the police force of the cities of New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore may be employed, and none other outside of the District of Columbia."

Under the provisions of this act, policemen from New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore only can be employed, and they must be members of the regular police department of those cities. While Maj. Moore anticipates no trouble in securing men from those cities, he feels the necessity of securing the services of men from such other places as Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Pittsburg; but, of course, these men cannot be paid from the appropriation.

It is generally supposed by the police that the act was passed in that shape in order to shut out the Pinkertons, and this they believe will operate to the advantage of the crooks.

During inaugurations and other celebrations detectives from other places, including Robert Pinkerton and a corps of his men, have always been employed, and during the last two inaugurations the Pinkertons were virtually in charge of the detective arrangements. On these occasions the thieves did not reap a harvest as they did during the Garfield inaugural, when the local men were assisted by other city officers.

Under the terms of the bills, the police will be able to secure the services of Capt. Linden, an ex-Pinkerton man, who is at present chief of the Philadelphia police force. Capt. Linden is regarded as one of the best men in his line of business, and the police hope he will repeat his good work done here on former occasions.

In expending the appropriation Maj. Moore intends to appoint 300 special policemen, who will receive a compensation of $2.50 per day. These men will be selected as they were during the last inauguration, and they will be apportioned to the different precincts for patrol duty. With this number of special officers to guard property on the outskirts of the city, many of the regularly uniformed men can be utilized down town, where the crowds will be the thickest.

DUMPED INTO THE BAY.

Toledo People Have a Narrow Escape.

Their Yacht Capsized Off Sandusky.

The Steamer Frank E. Kirby, Captain Fox, Saves Four Persons From a Watery Grave.

Sandusky, Aug. 25.—(Special)—When the steamer Frank E. Kirby moved out of the harbor yesterday afternoon her passengers and crew sighted a party of shipwrecked mariners in the bay about midway between this city and the Peninsula. The Kirby steamed out of her course to rescue them, going as near as the depth of the water would permit.

One of her yawl boats was lowered and manned by a half dozen of her crew who picked up four unfortunate people who were clinging to the side of a capsized sail boat.

The Kirby whistled for a tug and the Dan Connelly, Capt. Wheeler in command, responded promptly and soon had the rescued party on board.

They were Harry Allen and wife and Henry Haines, of Toledo, and Hattie Caldwell, daughter of Chas. P. Caldwell, the deputy collector of customs of this port.

The Toledo people were visiting friends in this city and planned a sailing trip to the Peninsula. On their return they were caught in a squall that came up very suddenly and capsized their boat. The ladies each went to the bottom of the bay twice. When they came up the second time the Caldwell girl grabbed Mrs. Allen by the hair and held on until a line was thrown to her by Haines and she was pulled up on the boat.

Mrs. Allen was rescued at the same time by her husband.

The men were more fortunate. They managed to keep their heads above water from the time the boat went over until all were landed on top.

A large crowd of people awaited the coming of the tug to the docks at the foot of Columbus avenue and it was a relief to everybody to know that none of the party had been drowned.

HE CHANGED HIS MIND.

A Wedding Postponed at the Last Minute.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 25.—Arthur Van Hise, a decorator in one of the potteries here, who was to have been married to Miss Ella Zehner, a beautiful girl of 17 years, has mysteriously disappeared.

Miss Zehner is a china decorator and worked beside Van Hise for five years.

All preparations had been made for the wedding when, at the last moment, two sisters of Van Hise came and announced that his family had decided that the marriage was not a fitting one and had induced their brother to change his mind. Miss Zehner is now ill with nervous prostration.

VICTORIA IS FAILING.

Evidence of the Queen's Rapid Decline.

She Will Hold no More Drawing Room Levees.

Old Age is Showing on the Lady and the Princess of Wales Will Take Her Place.

New Work, Aug. 25.—A dispatch from London says: The announcement that the queen has decided not to hold any more drawing rooms in person, but to hereafter delegate all such functions to the Princess of Wales, has caused something of a sensation in aristocratic circles, and is accepted as a virtual withdrawal of the venerable sovereign to private life.

It is explained that after several recent drawing room levees the queen has been considerably fatigued and had also suffered from sick headache, and that she sees no reason why she should continue officiating in person at such functions when they involve physical suffering.

It is generally believed, however, that the queen has become altogether too feeble to allow of any great strain on her physical or nervous system, and that she has come to the conclusion that it is necessary for her to husband her strength.

It is given out, however, that she will hold court once a year at Buckingham Palace, at which she will receive the diplomatic corps and their ladies, together with the members of the cabinet. She will, however, personally revise the list of invited guests.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

Members Growing Weary of Camp Life.

Many Delegations Returning Homeward.

The Sisters Having Much Pleasure and Doing Considerable Business.

Kansas City, Aug. 25.—From the noise on the streets last night it would be supposed that the Pythian knights would not be in good condition to go through the exercises of the day with any pleasure to themselves, but at Camp Shaw this morning everybody was early astir and the companies were ready for the prize drilling which began promptly at 9 o'clock.

The first drill was a battallion drill, and this was followed by regimental and division drills in the order of seniority of entry. The drilling to-day will continue until late in the afternoon, and to-night there will be a grand military display at the park, in which the Third regiment, N. G. M., and Pythians will participate.

At 9 o'clock the supreme lodge of the Pythians went in session at their hall and the Pythian sisters started on an excursion to Leavenworth, where they will be entertained by the local lodges there today, returning this evening.

The session of the supreme lodge of Pythians will be devoted to a further discussion of the ritual. The supreme meetings of the Pythian sisterhood were resumed at the Y. M. C. A. rooms yesterday. There is a very full representation of this branch present when is it remembered that the representatives are all from far eastern states.

The sisterhood is composed of ladies, who are the wives, mothers and sisters of Knights of Pythias. The order was founded in Concord, N. H., on February 22, 1883, by Mrs. A. A. Young. Its objects are the same as those of the Pythian sisters, but knights are not admitted to membership. The order also assists its members financially and does charitable work not attempted by the sisters.

The ritual was formulated by the founder and the founder has never received any recognition from the supreme lodge. It is certain that some official recognition will be extended one of the two rival branches at this session of the supreme lodge, but the sisterhood has always occupied an independent position toward the supreme lodge, believing that the sterner sex has enough lodges to attend to without interfering with the sisterhood.

Already signs of breaking camp are to be seen and last night the outgoing trains carried a number of stragglers. To-night the Wabash will send out a special to St. Louis loaded with knights and this same road will take the Canadian contingent to Chicago. The Memphis also has several special cars ordered in for to-night and the Missouri Pacific will probably be compelled to run a special, three extra coaches having been ordered in for its regular night train to St. Louis.

DODGING THE CHOLERA.

Steamship Companies Taking Precautions.

The Emigrants Will be Sent Across the Ocean in Boats by Themselves.

New York, Aug. 25.—The officers in this city of the Hamburg-American Packet company received to-day the following message by cable from the headquarters of the company in Hamburg:

"As danger from infection may come from emigrant passengers booked together with first and second class passengers, we have decided, in order to secure for our passengers the best sanitary condition possible, to separate emigrant traffic from first and second class entirely, forwarding emigrants on separate ships exclusively. Besides, the express steamers will run until further notice between Southampton and New York only, beginning with the Columbia, due at Southampton to-day."

Emil L. Boas, general passenger manager of the line in New York, said that those passengers now on the continent who are booked to return by the Hamburg-American line will be carried from Hamburg to Southampton free of expense to them. The express boats referred to in the cablegram, Mr. Boas said, were the Augusta-Victoria, Fuerst Bismarck, Normannia and Columbia. These steamers will carry only first and second class cabin passengers. From time to time boats will be sent from Hamburg to New York with only emigrants on board. Before the emigrants leave Hamburg, Mr. Boas said, they will be fumigated at the company's expense, and no person with a symptom of disease will be taken on board. An apartment connected with the steamships will be fitted up on all the emigrant vessels, so that when they arrive at quarantine here every piece of baggage on board can be cleaned before being landed on Ellis island. With this perfect system of disinfection and the watchfulness of the officers at quarantine, Mr. Boas said he apprehended no danger from cholera.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 25.—The official cholera reports show that there were 174 new cases yesterday in excess of those reported on Tuesday, while the deaths were 84 in excess of those reported on the same day. Yesterday's totals, according to the official figures, were 5,679 new cases and 2,743 deaths.

OCEAN MARINE.

London, Aug. 25.—Steamer Columbia, New York for Hamburg, arrived at Southampton to-day.

New York, Aug. 25.—Arrived—Noordland, from Antwerp.

London, Aug. 25.—The White Star steamer Brittanic, New York for Liverpool, arrived at Queenstown to-day.

DIED FROM SUNSTROKE.

London, Aug. 25.—The Standard's Buda Pesth correspondent gives an account of the military manoeuvers at Fuenfkirchen yesterday in the terrible heat. He says that out of the forces engaged in the evolutions four officers, eight corporals and ten privates have died of sunstroke.

WEIGHED TWO POUNDS.

Tiffin, O., Aug. 25.—(Special)—A freak of nature was brought to light to-day by the death of a female infant of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Preyor, of East Market street. The child was ten weeks old, well formed and weighed only 24 ounces.

IS IT BUNCO?

Strange Developments in the Broer Failure.

Diamonds Traded for Mortgages on Kentucky Land.

From All Evidence Obtained Thus Far a Gigantic Swindle Has Been Perpetrated and B. H. Broer Was Buncoed.

Indications have just been discovered of as deep laid and as cleverly operated game of bunco as ever was perpetrated in Toledo.

It is generaly known that B. H. Broer, jeweler, failed on last Saturday, and that there has been very little said as to the assets and liabilities since.

However, there has been a mysterious undercurrent of some kind of a deal, the particulars of which have been cropping out in an inadherent manner ever since Saturday.

Very soon after Mr. Broer sold his stock of goods to Mr. Ketcham there were a half dozen creditors in the city from New York looking after their claims and endeavoring to find something to attach to save themselvs.

Of these creditors Jas. W. Weiss and Henry E. Oppenheimer & Co., both diamond dealers on Maiden lane, New York, filed suit in common pleas court to recover amounts on notes not yet due.

These were not the claims which bothered Messrs. Weiss and Oppenheimer, however. It was a more serious matter.

About two weeks ago agents of these two firms met Mr. Broer at the Boody house, of whom he purchased diamonds to the value of $3,300. This is the claim that brought Messrs. Oppenheimer and Weiss to the city.

Keeping within the province of what might be expected, these firms upon learning of Mr. Broer's action in selling his stock, naturally came to the conclusion that he had purchased the diamonds with the premeditated intention of selling out and defrauding them of that much money.

Any one who has known Mr. Broer or had any business transactions with him, would hesitate to believe any such charges against him, and his past record, which has always been above reproach, substantiates this conviction.

Messrs. Weiss and Oppenheimeri mmediately came on from New York to get back their diamonds if possible. They had both done business with Mr. Broer for a number of years, and were slow to believe that he had any dishonest motives in purchasing the goods, as he did. When approached by them on the subject he was unable to turn over the stock or give any account of it.

The case then assumed rather a suspicious phase, but developments of yesterday and to-day exhonerate Mr. Broer from any dishonest motives in the matter, and manifest strong evidence of a crooked deal, of which Mr. Broer has been made the dupe.

This is the story as learned by a Bee to-day.

When Messrs. Appenheimer and Weiss arrived in the city they consulted with Attorney Bloch, who has been endeavoring to get some trace of the diamonds ever since.

Yesterday a friend of his informed him that Mr. Broer had quite recently traded some diamonds for land in Kentucky. This was a pointer and Mr. Bloch followed it up.

At 2 o'clock according to previous arrangements, he had an engagement to meet Mr. Broer, and his attorney, Samuel Kohn, at the latter's office. During this conference Mr. Bloch informed Mr. Broer of what he had learned and asked if there was any truth in the alleged deal. Mr. Broer was astounded and wanted to know where Mr. Bloch obtained his information. Mr. Kohn was equally surprised, as he know nothing of the deal. Then Mr. Broer stated that about ten days ago he did trade in one deal $3,300 worth of diamonds to certain parties for notes, and mortgages on 200 acres of land in Clayton county, Ky. He discounted the paper about half, and thinking he would have time to turn the paper at a big margin before he would have to pay for the diamonds he made the trade.

In conversation with a Bee Mr. Kohn said: "I knew nothing of this land deal until Mr. Block referred to it during the conference in my office yesterday. I am firmly convinced that Mr. Broer was thoroughly honest in his transaction, but it looks as though he had been duped.

"We are investigating the value of the securities at the present time. The parties have worked the deal before and their transaction would not hold water.

"Mr. Block, attorney for the creditors, and myself, representing Mr. BRoer, will make an effort to recover the property, so as to reimburse those to whom Mr. Broer is indebted. Mr. Broer is as anxious to substantiate the deal as any one. If the securities are good all will be well. If not, we will try and get the diamonds back. There appears to have been another deal, of a similar nature, made some time ago. If the trade is all right it will probably never come out. If not, and the securities are worthless, an exposure will be made which will implicate a number of well-known people in Toledo."

THE BRIDGE GAVE WAY.

Twenty-Three Men Dumped Into a River.

The Storms of the Previous Night Had So Weakened the Structure That It Fell.

Greenville, Pa., Aug. 25.—Early this morning Bridge Foreman Fisher, of the Pittsburg, Shenango & Lake Erie railroad, together with several other employes of the road, started on engine 23 to inspect the bridges along the line that had been damaged by last evening's storm.

While crossing the bridge at Dixonburg the structure gave way and engine and men were hurled to the bottom of a deep ravine and into the torrents of water that are yet sweeping down the creek bed.

Foreman Fisher was instantly killed and Conductor Deifenlifer had both legs crushed off and cannot live. Others are reported dead or dying. A corps of physicians have gone to the scene of the accident on a special train.

TROOPS LEAVING.

The Soldier Boys Shake the Dust of Buffalo From Their Feet.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 25.—The evacuation of the railroad yards by the state militia has been ordered and some of the troops are already leaving for home. Others will follow to-night and the remainder will be gradually withdrawn.

KILLED IN A MINE.

London, Aug. 25.—A dispatch from Swansea, Wales, states that a terrible accident occurred at one of the mines in that vicinity. While the men were at work in the mine part of the roof fell in, crushing several miners to death and badly injuring three others who were rescued.

STRIKE IS OFF.

Switchmen in Buffalo Lost Their Battle.

Other Railroad Employes Would Not Help Them,

And They Had to Submit to Defeat.

Conductors, Firemen and Engineers Had No Grievances

And Refused to Leave Their Work in Order to Help the Yardmen Gain Their Point on a Ten Hour Question.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 25.—At midnight Mr. Sweeney, the head of the switchmen's order, officially recognized the fact that the strike movement of switchmen, which was inaugurated 12 days ago in this city, had failed. In the official terms of the order, the strike was "declared off."

The men who were formerly employed as switchmen in the railway yards here were notified by their local officials that the purpose for which they quit their employment has not been accomplished, and they are now at liberty to get back their places if they can.

The beginning of the end of what was until last Sunday an almost general strike of switchmen in the Buffalo railroad yards, was marked by Mr. Sweeney's appeal to the heads of other orders of railway workers to meet him in conference in this city.

Mr. Sweeney was brought face to face with the fact that as stated in these dispatches Sunday night, there was no longer any strike of switchmen in the Buffalo yards.

The evident fact that the companies had resumed the natural conduct of their business without the men who had left their employ with Mr. Sweeney's sanction, pressed home to the grand master workman the conviction that his ocal followers had become no longer striking switchmen, but only idle men whose work is the throwing of switches, but whose positions had been forfeited without profit to themselves.

Their leader was brought to see by daily developments in the yards that if his men were saved at all some power beyond his resources or their's must be invoked. He turned, as a last resort, toward the other organizations of railway workers, and in his invitation to Messrs. Sargent, Clark, Arthur, Wilkinson, and Thurston were the visible indications that the switchmen must confess defeat without fraternal aid.

At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon Messrs. Sweeney, Wilkinson, and Clark proceeded to the room occupied by Mr. Sargent, of the firemen. That gentleman received them at the threshold, ushered them in and closed and bolted the door. Some one from within also shut the transon. There was little formality in the procedure of conference.

Mr. Sweeney was asked at once to set forth the position in which he and his men were placed. He did so at length and in detail. At the conclusion of Mr. Sweeney's statement he reiterated what had already been stated, that his men should not go on a sympathetic strike unless all railway organizations did so. If this was a case which demanded that a general issue should be made by all organized railway labor, then he would be in line with his firemen, otherwise the firemen would be kept boiling water.

Mr. Clark stated that if the conductors had no grievance and that, while they believed the demands of the switchmen were just, there would be no strike of conductors save it was to redress the wrongs to the conductors. Mr. Wilkinson, for the trainmen, informed the switchmen's leader that he felt the original demands of the switchmen were fair if ever any demands were just, but his order could not consent to co-operation by a sympathetic strike.

These statements having been made, Mr. Sweeney had receievd his ultimatum. The conference broke up about 7 o'clock.

After leaving the conference Mr. Sweeney went to the room of Arbitration Commissioner Donovan and informed him of the result of the conference. "In view of the result of the conference and of mine with railroad officials, I recommend to you that the strike be declared off and thereby secure a return to work of as many men as possible," said Mr. Donovan.

Mr. Sweeney was undecided, and after a lengthy discussion, in which the whole situation was reviewd and Mr. Sweeney had stated that he was not beaten and could yet cripple all the trunk lines between New York and Chicago, he finally decided that the suggestion of the commissioner and the recommendations of the heads of labor organizations during the conference that the most advisable thing to do was to declare the strike off were wise. He had appealed for aid, which had been denied him, and his next duty and errand was to apprise the representatives of the now idle switchmen that their cause in this movement was lost. Nearly a mile up Main street, in one of the big hotels, four men lounged upon a big leather sofa. Finally a slight, wiry figure hurried in and beckoning to the four proceeded with them to room No. 163, on the fourth floor of the hotel. It was Mr. Sweeney's room and the slight, wiry man was Mr. Sweeney. The men who were awaiting him were Master Workman Moriarity, of the switchmen's lodge in this city, and the three others were also local representatives of the men who had gone on a strike.

Then began a confab which was continued until after 11 o'clock. During its progress messengers came and were dispatched frequently until at 10:10 Mr. Sweeney was called from the room and asked to make a statement of his purpose for publication. He refused to do so at the time, saying that a very important message was momentarily expected and upon its arrival he would make an announcement to the press. A conclusion was reached by those who waited that an endeavor was being made before the official declaration of the switchmen's failure to secure assurances from the railroads that their former switchmen would be reinstated. Mr. Sweeney subsequently in such a cavalier manner that confirmation of this impression became impossible. Eventually at 11:10 o'clock Master Workman Moriarity came into the hallway and whistled to indicate that the head of the switchmen's order was then ready to communicate with the people through the press. The correspondents filed into the small room, whose door and window had been tightly shut to secure secrecy to the proceedings.

A small stand in the center of the room was surrounded by the group of labor leaders, Mr. Sweeney having before him a litter of stationery and messages.

"The master workman will say a few words to the press," announced Mr. Moriarty. The head of the order, tapping upon the table with a pencil, in a ruminant sort of fashion, and in a tone of voice so low as to scarcely be heard across the room, said: "A conclusion has been reached by the duly authorized representatives of the switchmen, and it is that this trouble is ended at midnight to-night. That is all I have got to say, and I don't propose to answer any questions, so you need not ask any."

Silence fell upon the entire company. The newspaper men stared in surprise for a moment at Mr. Sweeney, and as questions were about being put by several, he added: "Five hundred and fifteen switchmen can't fight 8,000 troops and four or five railroad companies."

"Will any of your men be taken back by the roads?" asked a retiring correspondent. "They need trained and skillful help, and they certainly cannot get any better men than these," was Mr. Sweeney's response. The word was carried out towards the East Buffalo yards at once by messengers, and before dawn the idle switchmen knew they were again at liberty to seek work where they could.

Lactated Food Gave Her Health.

From Spencerport, N. Y., Mrs. I. J. Woodmansee writes:

Miss Woodmansee.

"My little girl was very sick last May with bowel trouble, and after trying several things, the druggist advised me to use lactated food. I did so and she improved rapidly. She has been using the food since then, and it has kept her well and strong. I shall always recommend it when I see a baby that is sick or fretful, for my experience has satisfied me that lactated food will make any child rosy, plump and well."

It is estimated by Arbitration Commissioner Donovan, who has called upon the railway officials in behalf of the men, that nearly 50 per cent. of the now idle switchmen will be re-employed. It is probable that the troops will be speedily withdrawn, the local militia being left to furnish such protection as may be necessary.

ON SECOND THOUGHT.

What the Striking Buffalo Switchmen Are Doing.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Now that the switchmens' strike is off the question is worrying the men who went out whether the railroads will take them back.

It was given out last night that on several roads an understanding to that effect had been arrived at. Arbitration Commissioner Donovan is quoted as saying:

"I had interviews with the superintendents of the principal roads involved and requested them in the event of the strike being declared off, to give employment to as many men who were out on strike as possbile. The superintendents of the Lehigh and Erie assured me that they would do so.

"I am not certain about the Central, but the other roads where the strike was sympathetic the men will all be taken back without question, I am sure, except such as have violated the law and forfeited the confidence of their employers by riotous conduct.

"On these assurances I recommended to Mr. Sweeney that the strike be declared off. Our interview followed the conference which Mr. Sweeney had with Messrs. Sargent, Clark and Wilkinson. Mr. Sweeney was at first loth to give up, but after laboring with him for two hours, he at last consented, if he could get the acquiescence of the local switchmen.'

From other sources it was learned that the Lackawanna people will probably take back all their old men.

Supt. Fennell, of the Lehigh Valley, when asked if he would take the old men back, replied: "President McLeod's circular issued a few days ago holds good now. In it I am given discretionary power. On our road about 75 or 80 men struck. There are now about 25 vacancies. We shall look around and see who the men are who have kept away from the yards and have made no disturbances; these men stand a good show of getting back"

General Superintendent Bartlett, of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, said: "We have men engaged and on the way to take the strikers' places and will have no vacancies. We may take back some of our old men, but it would hardly be consistent. We granted our men everything they asked for, but it seemed that they were determined to strike. When they went out I discharged them and told them plainly that they had not acted fairly with the road."

General Superinendent Cunniff, of the Lake Shore, said: "The relations between the men and the company have always been pleasant and I regretted that they saw fit to leave the service of the company. We now have 80 men at work. When they were employed it was with the understanding that their places would be permanent. It would be unfair to these men to discharge them to make room for former employes. They will give us a full force."

General Agent Knibloe, of the Buffalo Creek road, is reported as having decided to take back the men on his road, as the work is such that it requires men of wide experience to handle the work of that road. It is probable that within the next 48 hours the troops will be on the homeward march. An order was sent to the commanders of the various camps early this morning giving directions how to proceed about breaking camp. There seems to be no chance of a grand military parade here, such as was proposed. Generals Porter and Doyle thing the scheme is not feasible. They do not want to ask the men to go through a hard day's marching after their trials in camp and in the second place the majority of the troops will take trains at their respective camps without coming into the city.

Dangerously Injured.

Buffalo, Aug. 25.—Thomas Manaher, the striker who was shot at the Tifft yard yesterday afternoon, is at the Sisters' hospital in a dangerous condition. If peritonitis or some other complication does not set in he may recover.

THE FORESTERS.

They Will Pension Their Old Members.

Encouraging Reports From the High Court As Sent From London.

New York, Aug. 25.—A copy of the report of the High Court of the Ancient Order of Foresters, and which has just been received in this city from London, contains some extraordinary facts of interest to members of friendly societies in this country.

The report shows that over 830,000 people are directly connected with the order, that the invested funds of the High Court amount to $20,500,000, that nearly $2,000,000 are in the hands of the district courts, that the children's societies have an aggregate fund of $600,000, and that the reserves of the order amount to nearly $22,000,000.

In view of these facts the High Court has already resolved to consider plans for an equitable system of old age pensions.

OHIO TO THE FRONT.

Nightingale Makes the Buckeye Name Good.

She Wins the Charter Oak at Hartford.

News of the Ball Diamond—Trap Shooters—General Sporting Miscellany.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 25.—Since the Charter Oak stake has been a fixture of the Grand Circuit meeting here beginning in 1883, it has been won four times by a trotter from Ohio, the victory of the black mare Nightingale to-day completing the list of successes for the Buckeye state.

The contest, though not as long as the nine heat battle last year, was one of the most brilliant ever seen on any track, and the four miles trotted were all faster than 2:15. Globe and Nightingale divided the honors for speed, the Buffalo gelding showing great form by his heat in 2:11 3-4, and the clip he made Nightingale go for two more miles. Belle Vara, the favorite, was a disappointment, though she was well up in the first and fourth heats, but could not sustain the flight necessary to get home in front. In the early betting Belle Vara sold for $1,000, Nightingale $560, Illinois Egbert $180, Globe $170, Instant $125, while the other nine brought the total up to $2,380. A New Haven turfman was the lucky buyer of this big pool on the winner, and the owners of Nightingale also landed a good many thousands on the game trotter.

There was a lot of scoring, especially in the third heat, but only of the 14 starters failed to remain till the last, Nellie McGregor being the unfortunate. Globe drew the pole in the first heat and was not headed, Belle Vara getting to second place, but unable to close on the fast old gelding, who reduced his record nearly five seconds. The second heat was a lively one, Nightingale getting to Globe's wheel and forcing him along so fast that he tired on the home stretch and the mare won by three lengths in 2:13 1-2. Belle Vara had made a break in the first quarter and Frank Starr laid her up after that. In the third heat Belle Vara was in pursuit of Nightingale when she again lost her stride near the half. Nellie Mason was coming very fast behind and, stepping on the other mare's wheel, turned a somesault and pitched Loomis out. He had a fortunate escape, however, as the big mare did not get away, and after the sulky righted Nelly Mason finished tae mile unhurt. Globe had dropped back, and the fight was made by Instant and Jessie Hanson, but Nightingale shook them off in turn, and was an even length ahead of Instant in 2:14 1-2. Belle Vara made a last effort to redeem herself in the fourth heat, going lapped on Nightingale to the last quarter but again the black made proved the faster, and drawing away at the distance came home a winner of the stake by a clear length in 2:14 1-2, while Globe, Belle Vara and Instant were bunched in the struggle for second place.

A floral trophy was presented to Nightingale's driver and the big crowd of 12,000 cheered the gallant mare for her well earned victory. The time is the fastest ever trotted in a stake and the average the lowest ever made in a race of four heats. The 2:27 class took six heats to decide, Bella Wilkes, the first favorite, only getting one of these. Alcitone, Jr., seemed pretty sure of the money after getting two heats and a record below 2:20, but Harry McNair surprised everyone by stepping a third heat in 2:18, and after getting the fourth was a 2 to 1 favorite. A very bad start lost him the fifth heat, but he had little trouble in the sixth, Bella Wilkes breaking at the critical moment.

Of the 2:19 pacers Thistle, from Parkville farm, Long Island, was the tip, and his first heat in 2:14 showed him to be worthy of confidence. After losing the second heat to Nellie B. the stallion captured the third, and then is was too dark to continue. This race will be finished early to-day to make room for the big card of the third day, when the Hartford purse of $10,000 for foals of 1889, with the 2:17 and 2:23 trots, are on. Summaries:

New York, Aug. 25.—The question which is agitating the public at present is the style of fighting Corbett will adopt in his great battle with John L. Sullivan.

None of the big betting men believe that he will stand up in front of Sullivan and attempt to deliver blow for blow. The general impression is that he will follow the Charley Mitchell tactics and act the defensive and try to avoid punishment as much as possible in order to tire Sullivan out and get him worried and rattled before going at him.

There are men, however, who firmly believe that Corbett is too much of a gentleman to do the "shifty act," and his manliness will induce him to stand up like a stone wall and fight for his life like a hero.

If eh is composed of any such noble sentiment as this, and does stand up like a solid wall, it is the general opinion that Sullivan will induce him to change his tactics before the close of the first round, as there is not one person in a thousand who believes Corbett will stand a ghost of a chance with Sullivan if he stands right up and fights him.

From the large amount of wrestling Corbett has been doing in his training and with different big men, it is suspected by Sullivan and his associates that Corbett intends to do an immense amount of hugging, and the greater portion of his time will be spent hanging around Sullivan's neck, tiring the big fellow to death with his weight.

It is very much more tiresome to fight a man who is constantly dragging on you than it is one who runs away, as you are liable to whip yourself trying to shake him off, while you can easily wait for a sprinter to come to you.

Sullivan fully expects Corbett to adopt this style of fighting, and therefore, has been practicing very carefully on short arm work. He will endeavor to always keep one arm free, and will pump his fist into Corbett's stomach and ribs as long as he can keep his arm free, and he will commence this short quick punching every time Corbett runs in and clinches. Sullivan, however, thinks Corbett does not amount to much as a fighter, and contemplates winning a very easy victory.

Asbury Park, Aug. 25.—The greatest bicycle event of the season, with the exception of the national meet held in Washington in July, will come off here on Friday and Saturday.

The program includes nearly every variety of contest, and will extend over two days.

The Parkside track, where the tournament is to be held, is the finest quarter mile track in the United States, if not in the world, and ample provision has been made for the thousands of wheelmen who have arrived during the past 24 hours to witness the sport.

The aggregate value of the prizes offered amounts to several thousand dollars, and the list includes several high grade wheels, gold watches, and sporting goods of every description.

The tourney is given under the auspices of the Chicago Cycling club, and the crack wheelmen of that city will be pitted against such famous eastern riders as Berlo, Taylor, Tyler, Tax's, the two Murphys, the two Smiths, Banker, and the unconquerable Zimmerman.

How it Was Written

Thatcher's Tuxedo will be the attraction at Wheeler's this evening. At the time when Tuxedo, the famous resort of the New York 400, was in its infancy, the rage for amateur theatricals was at its height in New York society. Grease paint hung heavily on the horizon and a nimbus of sock and buskin glory encircled Mrs. James Brown Potter. Amateurdom was at her feet, and she was its proudly recognized queen. What more appropriate, then, than that Tuxedo should be formally opened with a superb amateur performance given under the mantle of sweet charity. The event was the most brilliant one of the season. The performance was a success; Mrs. Potter, Edward Fales Coward, Miss Elsie De Wolfe and other representative society people were in the cast. The affair was described in the columns of the New York papers; in a word Tuxedo was born, and in its mouth was the traditional silver spoon.

All this time a couple of merry minstrels men were chasing flies and building jokes at Plainfield, Geo. Thatcher's home, just a metaphorical stone's throw from Tuxedo.

Ed Marble was spending the summer with Thatcher. The more Marble read of the gay doings at Tuxedo the more he ruminated. He had an idea. He nursed it, fed it and cherished it. It finally took root, germinated and sprouted, and just what that idea was will be seen here this evening.

Mr. J. G. Tanner, grand marshal of the day, was present and offered plans for the conducting of the parade, that were approved. At the next meeting, which will be held Sunday evening, a line of march will be decided upon, and all locals wishing to march, must report to the grand marshal at once.

Letters from prominent business men offering assistance were read, and several labor organizations out side the central body announced their desire to participate in the parade.

THE OHIO CENTRAL.

Train Wrecker Chas. Patch Captured

By a Clever Ruse of a Detective—He Was a Bad Man But Proved An Easy Mark.

Last May two trains were wrecked on the Toledo & Ohio Central railroad and several attempts were made to do more mischief. The officials hired detectives to work the case up and find out who the miscreants were. Men were sent to Brice, O., to watch several suspicious characters. Finally, one day a roll of wire, weighing 300 pounds was placed on the track. Chas. Patch was observed coming from the place where the obstruction was found and he was shadowed. A detective got in with Patch, asserting that he was a burglar. He told Patch a good many fairy tales, and, not to be outdone, Patch named over some of his exploits. Numerous jobs that he had done were in this manner brought to light. The detective laid still another trap. He got Patch to take a ride over the line, and with a previous understanding with the conductor, the wrong portion of the tickets were taken up. On the return trip the conductor would not take the other half of the tickets and put Patch and the detective off the train.

The detective asked Patch what he was going to do about it. Patch answered that he would ditch one of the company's trains to get even. He then arranged to ditch a train near Brice. He obstructed the track with ties. Then the detectives pinched him. A T. & O. C. switch key was found on his person, between the lining of his coat. Patch was arraigned in court at Brice yesterday. The hearing will come off September 7.

A FAMILY BRAWL

Causes a Son to Shoot His Step-Father.

William Boyd, a St. Clair Street Saloon Keeper, Fatally Shot by Wm. Loerch.

Yesterday afternoon a family row resulted in what may prove to be a fatal shooting affair. William Boyd, the victim, lies wavering between life and death at St. Vincent's hospital.

Yesterday afternoon Boyd and his wife got into a wrangle in their saloon on St. Clair street, near Dixon's Standard theater. Mrs. Boyd wanted to treat some sailors to a drink. Her husband protested. A melee ensued during which beer glasses and bottles flew about promiscuously. Blood was up in the family and Mrs. Boyd thought a good way to get even would be to have her husband arrested for assault and battery, so she called her son by her first husband, a 23-years-old boy, William Loerch, and handing him a five-dollar bill told him to go to the police clerk and get out a warrant for the arrest of his stepfather.

When Mr. Boyd heard of this proceeding he was mad. He said he would give them something to swear out a warrant for when he caught the son. He made various threats which were conveyed to young Loerch's ears by friends who warned him not to go back to the saloon, as Boyd was in a rage.

Loerch then changed his plans. Instead of going after a warrant he took the money and purchased a 38-caliber revolver. Just before 4 o'clock he wended his way back to the saloon, entered and fired at his stepfather. Boyd fell on his face, shot through the intestines, fatally, it is thought.

Detective Hall and Patrolman Brady arrived on the scene immediately after the shooting and placed Loerch under arrest.

The wounded man was taken to St. Vincent's hospital.

The reporters called at the saloon soon after the shooting took place, but everybody was mum. Mrs. Boyd told everybody to shut up, as there were newspaper men present.

Loerch, in an interview with a Bee at the station gave the following account of the affair:

"I was sitting in the bar room reading a paper. The old man and woman were having a row between themselves. I was paying no attention to them, and was minding my own business when the old man grabbed me by the collar and threw me under the pool table. I got up and got back at him.

"Do you know that Boyd is badly injured?"

"I did not hurt him, for I shot into the floor. If he had not jumped onto me, there would not have been any trouble and everything would be all right.

"I am not going to squeal now. I can take my medicine, and I think he will have to show up more than I will."

This morning Byron Ritchie, Prosecutor Wheeler and Detectives Nichter and Hall visited Boyd at the hospital in hopes of getting an ante-mortem statement, but the wounded man was too low to talk.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon Boyd was very low and would not last much longer.

THEY WERE ATTACKED.

The Afghans Only Acted in Self Defense.

Simla, Aug. 25.—The Ameer of Afghanistan has sent to the government of India a copy of the report made by Col. Janoff, commander of the Russian forces in the Pamir country, on the recent fight between the Russians and Afghans at Somatash.

Col. Janoff declares that the Afghans first attacked the Russians, who only acted in self defense in firing upon them. The Ameer in his own account of the fight which was sent with Col. Janoff's report, says that the Russians surrounded the camp of the Afghans and were the aggressors.

The Ameer concludes his account with an appeal to the Indian goverament to aid him against the Russians.

THE STOLEN PROOF.

Catholic Circles Are Still Discussing the Case.

Paris, Aug. 25.—Interviews have been held with the foreign editors of the two leading Catholic papers here regarding the Archbishop Ireland memorial question. They did not seem to give any credit to the story of the stolen proof.

Mr. Demoure Godre, of the Universe, said: "Mgr. Ireland made a very good impression here and we have a very favorable opinion of his talents as a preacher, though the liberality of his ideas somewhat surprised us, as we are not accustomed to them yet in France. I do not think that the proof of the memorial on the parochial school question was stolen from the printing office of the propaganda at Rome. I do not see the necessity of such action, as the memorial was to be made public sooner or later."

The foreign editor of the Monde expressed his opinion as follows:

"This affair of the stolen proof is incredible and I do not believe a word of it. I think it is merely a hoax meant to increase the antagonism between Archbishops Corrigan and Ireland. The latter created quite a sensation when here. He spoke in public at the Geographic society and at the Luxemburg lyceum, comparing France and America and furthering the cause of the republic."

TO LEASE THE PLANT.

Proposition to the Gas Trustees to Buy or Sell.

Mr. Romels Says He Does Not Think the City Has the Legal Right to Do Either.

It transpires that a movement is on foot on the part of a number of local capitalists to lease or buy the city gas plant.

The matter has not yet been presented officially to the board of trustees, but the members individually have been approached on the subject.

"What truth is in the report, that the city gas plant is to be leased or sold?" Mr. Jacob Rameis, a member of the board, was asked this morning.

"Well, the matter has not come officially before the board, and I don't know that it will. I have been approached on the subject and asked if we would not be willing to sell or lease."

"Personally, what do you think of the proposition?"

"I have looked into the matter some, and it is my belief that without a special act of the legislature the city can neither lease nor sell."

If this should prove true the matter will probably be allowed to drop.

Mayor Emmick, who, it was understood, had presented the suggestion in the first place, believes it can and should be done if it can be gotten through with profit to the city.

The trustees are in a bad hole just now. They have no money and they need new wells badly. The present supply, it is said, will not supply over 2,500 private consumers next winter.

Such Is the Tale of the End of Cattle Thieves on the Western Plains.

Grand Junction, Col., Aug. 25.—H. C. Bucklin, an undertaker of the city, received yesterday the following telegraphic order from West Walter, Utah, north of the Colorado line:

"Send three coffins. We have run across the Brock gang."

Three cheap coffins were sent as requested. Brock's gang is a band of cattle thieves.

A Rio Grande Western brakeman who was at West Walter yesterday stated that the shooting took place on the Utah side of the line.

W. E. Davis came upon the men early in the morning. He was alone but shot with such good effect that three of the gang were killed and Brock himself shot through the head, though still alive when the train left.

Cholera Makes Its Appearance in the East.

A Lady at Norwich, Conn., Has Died With a Genuine Case of Asiatic Cholera.

Norwich, Conn., Aug. 25.—It is reported the disease from which Miss Francis Morgan, of this city, died Tuesday at the home of relatives in Griswold was cholera.

Three physicians attended her but were unable to save her. She had been well up to Monday afternoon. At 7 o'clock she was violently attacked and died at 10 o'clock the next morning. Dr. Cassidy, of this city, who attended her, said yesterday that her illness was a genuine case of Asiatic cholera as ever seen in this climate.

Seaveral other cases similar to, but not as violent as that of Miss Morgan, have occurred within two weeks in this section. In each instance the disease operated very rapidly and the doctors had a hard struggle to save the patients. In two cases the disease had a fatal termination.

Universal rejoicing hails the recovery of George William Curtis. He cannot well be spared from American newspaperdom and American literature.

Ten thousand knights in line, parading in a down-pouring of rain, is not a representation of a great sum of individual or aggregate happiness, but Kansas City couldn't boss the weather, and the true knight never complains.

The Inter-Ocean professes to want the N. Y. World to discuss the tariff with it. Bless the old I.-O., the World and hundreds of other newspapers knocked into smithereens, long ago, all the argument it ever presented, or would be able to present, re-hashed, on the subject of taxation a blessing.

An exchange, indulging in foolish threats to discontented labor, says:

Organized and unorganized labor, taken together, do not form a majority of the American people.

This is a rash and stupid assertion for even a republican editor to make. If it were true, which it is not, the country is, indeed, on the down grade and there is cause for alarm. The editor should get his elementary dictionary and analysis, and study up the definition of labor.

Miss Ada C. Sweet, who has been heard of before, officially, in Chicago, sustains her reputation as a thorough and successful business woman by arising, as president of the Municipal Order league, and demanding that Chicago shall begin now to cleanse her garments for the great event of '93. Last July a law was made for the building of garbage crematories, and yet no move has been made towards fulfillment. Miss Sweet went into particulars as to localities and a demand for promptness and the newspapers are ably seconding her proposition.

Behold how our exports have increased under the McKinley law, shout the tax advocates; then they tabulate figures of the agricultural products, which short crops in Europe and the natural law of supply and demand have made market for. Investigation shows that the commerce which has made its way in spite of hindrance, aided ever so little by the free-trade patch called reciprocity, has created the increase which the ignorant or malicious expounders swear by, in the name of taxation.

The Anne Hathaway cottage is safe from Yankee despoliation. Chicago was squinting that way but the old thatched hut has passed into English trusteeship, "and so," says the Toronto Empire, "has prevented the relic from being transported to the States. If our neighomrs had succeede they would have wanted Shakespeare's bones next, and made a bid on Westminster Abbey."

The Empire sizes up its neighbors nerve and enterprise about right. We don't care any great shakes about the old house anyway. We are not entirely satisfied that William wrote the plays and we've always been unreconciled to his marriage with Anne.

The voluntary contribution fund which the democrats are raising for campaign purposes is "a shameless collection of boodle," from the enemy's standpoint. The "fat-frying" republicans are the legitimate fund builders. When Cornelius N. Bliss was made treasurer of the national republican committee, an open argument for him was that his position as president of the American Protective Tariff league would give him "exceptional facilities." The confidence was not misplaced. The letter sent to members of the Tariff League, signed by all the executive committee reads:

Fully appreciating the great conflict now upon us, the executive committee calls for the full amount of each subscription for 1892—viz., one hundred dollars ($100). The annual demands thereafter, except in a crisis like the present, will be very small.

The national committee with the tariff leaguers realize the crisis which is at hand. As the league contains 1,500 members, and as many more of them gratefully hand in many hundreds, with the one solicited, the fat-frying scheme is in excellent working condition. Assessments on tariff beneficiaries take the money from those who have had it donated to them many times over by tariff legislation.

THE COMMERCIAL CHANGE.

Mr. P. C. Boyle has retired from the Commercial and Mr. H. C. Vordriede, S. M. Heller and Julian Tyler succeed. This is a strong financial combination. Messrs. Tyler and Vordriede are sons-in-law of Mr. Heller, the former being the energetic, pushing proprietor of the Toledo Express. Mr. Boyle has printed a good paper in Toledo and has made many warm friends, who always will wish him well. We opine the new firm will be successful. There is a field for a morning newspaper, a large field, and Mr. Vordriede understands how to make it win. Te Bee extends the right hand of fellowship to the new management and wishes it unlimited prosperity.

THE END OF THE STRIKE.

"Declared off" has a familiar sound, so many times repeated after days and weeks of unsuccessful effort. The great Buffalo strike ends to-day, Grand Master Sweeney having declared the cause lost and further effort futile. What loss of wage, employment and consequent suffering will follow this strike the public will know little about. It will be serious at best.

Strikes are increasing rapidly in this country, altogether too many for the welfare of the people. Nor must the critic try to find the cause hastily, or condemn rashly else he will be at fault himself. Back of all existing conditions will be found the reason, and, found, the people must apply the remedy in the only way pointed out by the spirit of our institutions—at the ballot box and by the freeman's ballot. We are not saying what is wrong, but surely something is wrong; yet there is redress that will reform methods and make better conditions. A general strike with the ballot will be effective. It will be greater than the combined oppositions of all the plutocrats and hard task maters; more powerful than all the military, drawn up in line to shoot. It will be irresistible and invincible in effect. We are not now saying how to vote. Intelligent workingmen of America ought to study conditions and determine that. But that a general voting strike ought to be planned and ordered is true, most earnestly true. Let Mr. Sweeney and Mr. Sargeant and Mr. Powderly and Mr. Gompers and other great labor leaders blaze the way through the woods. There would be some sense, method, reason and hope in such a strike.

SCANDAL AS NEWS.

Now and then a case in courts calls public attention to the question of the responsibility of newspapers in matters of scandal mongering. A United States District Judge has just rendered a decision to the effect that any invasion into the private lives of individuals may and should subject the gossipers to legal prosecution. The case in point was this: a man in New York asked a friend in Canada, an unmarried man, to take his wife under his care from the Canadian town where both were stopping, to New York, to meet him. The friend did so, and an elopement was heralded by the news hunters. For the unintentional scandal the journal will have to pay, roundly.

Incidents like these emphasize the fact that it is no business of the public, whether a woman makes a journey with her husband or her husband's friend; whether a man takes his wife with him to the fair, or his wife's sister, or neither of them. The better class of public journals recognize this fact, and more and more refrain from publishing gossippy stories, authenticated or unauthenticated. And this practice is enforced, not alone through fear of costs, but through the genuine instinct of good breeding and good manners. No marital disturbance or family quarrel is aided to solution by newspaper treatment, and the chances are that innocent persons are thoughtlessly belied, and the guilty are made martyrs and heroes of. It is very wisely said, by the judge in the case referred to:

The rules that govern good conduct in an individual are those that should prevail in the offices of newspapers. There is news enough in the world in which the public is rightly interested to fill the columns of our newspapers every day in the year; but the trouble is that gossip and scandal are often more interesting than matters of real moment. The rule of gentlemanly conduct ought to be the rule of the editor and publisher—as, happily, it very often is—and mere gossip and scandal-mongering are not excused by the answer that the patrons of a newspaper want what they ought not to have.

THE SILK INDUSTRY IN THE UNITED STATES

The injustice and inequalities in the tariff schedule, even if one were prejudiced and partisan enough to believe in the theory of the blessedness of taxation, are apparent to the most casual student. Take the silk industry. A tax protects the silk factory where silk cloths and ribbons are woven and the prices are placed twice and three times above prices in Paris and London. But the growers of cocoons, the producers who are trying to get a start in the propogation of the worms are left to compete in open market with the labor of Europe and Asia. As the cultivaters of cocoons are composed, in great numbers, of women, who are not voters, to remove the protection from their industry and increase the tax for the benefit of the weavers, was a politic thing to do. And yet, in the same newspaper which reports the increase of the imported raw material from European and Asiatic ports, there is report of a meeting, in California, of those interested, to discuss the best methods of growth of the mulberry trees and care of the worms. Inasmuch as this industry is decidedly in its infancy and capable of unlimited expansion, why should not the producers be paid a bounty, the same as the raisers of sugar beets? The sugar refiners are granted a bonus and helped to build up a trust, so are the silk weavers. Why shouldn't the silkworm women, as well as the sugar beet men, be protected by straight bounty, from discouragement because of competition by importation of the product from foreign lands? The possibilities for raising raw silk material in this country are as good as for the production of the crude sugar product.

The Dry Goods Economist boasts that,

Imports of raw silk increased from 33,611 bales, valued at $17,972,176, in 1890, to 51,983 bales, valued at $28,670,153, for the twelve months ending June 30, 1892. The fact is that the United States have taken nearly one-third of the raw silk imported from the Asiatic ports in the season just closed.

A tax organ quotes this with great gusto and adds:

The silk industry was created in this country by protection, though we had none of the raw material.

Why should we not have the raw material when it has been demonstrated in California and states of the southwest that it can be advantageously produced? With the rest of the business boosted by tribute, why should not the foundation of it be artificially stimulated? The case is precisely similar to the one presented by sticklers for tax on raw wool. You will wait a long time for any campaign orator or editor to explain away this utter inconsistency and injustice.

World's Fair Notes.

Mrs. Schuyler Van Rensselaer, the art critic of the New York World, who was sent out to describe, from an art standpoint, the buildings of the world's Columbian exposition, has arisen from simple description to eloquent panegyric, and scarcely finds words strong enough, in a recent article in that paper, to designate the success as well as the scope of the fair.

Diana is going to leave her pedstal in Madison Square Garden, New York, and go to Chicago. There she will be placed on top of the agricultural building at the exposition. The price paid is $2,500. While suited to the agriculture building at the exposition, the staue, which is eighteen feet high, is too large and disproportionate for its pedestal in New York, and a smaller one is being made for Madison Square Garden, an exact reproduction on a smaller scale.

No Protection for the Farmer.

The American farmer is practically secure from foreign competition in his home arket and for that reason needs no protection. No nation under the sun can compete to any extent with the products of our farms. The farmer by means of the taxes on what he does not produce has been forced to pay and is to-day paying tribute to the 14,500 manufacturers, the sole beneficiaries of the tariff. Governor McKinley in all his long speech could not show where the farmers receive one dollar's benefit from high protection, but, upon the contrary, he gave reasons why they should vote against it.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Before and After Taking.

While he was a member of the cabinet Mr. Blaine was considered "a mental and physical wreck, scarcely able to write his own name," by President Harrison. Since his retirement he has regained such robust health that Mr. Harrison expects him "to take the stump."—St. Joseph (Mo.) Gazette.

HE PLEADS GUILTY.

George, the Alleged Counterfeiter, Bound Over.

He Makes a Partial Confession Which the Authorities Believe to be Only Partly True—What Captain Abbott Says.

At the hearing before U. S. Commissioner Beckham of William George, on the charge of passing counterfeit silver certificates, George was bound over in the sum of $2,000 to the December term of the U. S. Court.

George is booked evidently for a term in the pen. On his own confession he stands guilty of passing the money, but he absolutely refuses to tell where he secured the counterfeit.

Yesterday Captain Abbott, of the government detective agency, returned from a wild goose chase to Michigan whence he had gone to substantiate information given him by George.

"There was no truth in his statements," the captain said to a Bee yesterday. "I found, however, that George was nothing more nor less than a petty thief, who would steal anything that was not too big for him to carry."

George pleaded guilty as charged.

The first witness at the hearing yesterday was T. J. Chilcotte, a clerk in the employ of A. Williams, of Perrysburg. He testified that George, some time in April last tried to pass a $10 counterfeit bill at the store.

Bill produced and identified.

Russel Barton, a clerk in his father's store at Perrysburg, testified that he had sold George a shirt last April for which he received the $10 counterfeit produced. He identified that the shirt worn now by George was the one he had sold.

U. S. Deputy Marshal Dan Harmon identified the counterfeit produced as one of those passed by George.

Col. E. A. Abbott was the next witness He stated that George had admitted to him having handled and distributed a number of counterfeits, amounting, perhaps, to about $900.

Commissioner Beckham re-committed the prisoner under a $2,000 bond to the workhouse. George has no friends and is in very poor health and will likely remain at the workhouse until his trial.

THE STEWART PLACER.

The Long Lost Mine Has Been Found.

A Telegram From Jimtown, Col., Furnishes Some Startling Information.

Jimtown, Col., Aug. 25.—The long lost Stewart placers have been found. A party of prospectors came into Spar City, the headquarters of the Lime Creek district yesterday and reported that 19 miles to the southwest of the Lime Creek district, and at the head of Wilson creek, they have found extensive gold placer beds, which are as rich as those found by Stewart and his partner, Kit Carson, shortly after the war, when they came through that country on their way to California, but which they abandoned for the time on account of the Indians.

The new find corresponds with the meager description old man Stewart gives. He had bene back in the territory several times since, but was unable to identify any of the surroundings. The report created the wildest excitement and by afternoon 25 men were equipped and sent to the scene of the new discovery.

SENSATIONAL STORY.

Lizzie and Emma Borden Have Some Words.

New York, Aug. 25.—A special to the World from Fall River says that Miss Lizzie Borden was visited by her sister Emma yesterday. Mrs. Regan, the police matron, was present during the interview. When Lizzie saw her sister she waved her away, saying: "You gave me away, Emma, did you not?" and turned her back upon her sister.

"No, Lizzie, I only told Mr. Jennings what he ought to know for your defense," answered the girl.

Lizzie turned and replied in a voice embittered with suppressed passion: "That is false. You have given me away and I know it, but remember, I will not give in one inch; never, never. That is all I care to say to you."

With tears in her eyes and a voice choked with sobs, Miss Emma left the room and the accused, overcome with emotion, fell prostrate on her bed.

Mrs. Regan was speechless and horrified at the compromising words. It is understood that Miss Emma Borden told Mr. Jennings, her sister's attorney, all that she knew or surmised as to the Borden murder.

BRYAN.

Notes of General Interest from a Near by Town.

Bryan, O., Aug. 25.—(Special)—Mrs. W. Rotsel went to Defiance yesterday to remain a few days.

Deputy Collector Coy was in Bryan Tuesday.

David Kirklin, of Norwalk, visited his nephews, George and Al. Parcher here Tuesday.

Miss Jennie Harris left Wednesday for Ripley, O., to engage in a series of meetings.

H. B. Taylor is here from Fairbury, Ill.

A splendid time was enjoyed by the little ones at the Sabbath school union picnic yesterday, in Hopkins' grove, east of town.

KILLED AT CAMP.

An Accident Results in Death at Homestead.

Pittsburg, Aug. 25.—Jesse Benninghoff, a private in Company K, Sixteenth regiment, at Homestead, was accidentally shot and killed while in his tent yesterday by Private Smith, of the same company.

Smith was cleaning a revolver in his tent when one of the cartridges went off; the bullet passed through the next tent, in which a guardsman was sleeping and pierced the canvas of Benninghoff's quarters.

The lad was standing cleaning a gun when the bulet struck him in the left side, passing through the liver and lodging in his back. He died in a few minutes. He was 18 years old and came from Greenville.

TAKING PRECAUTION.

International Board of Health to Meet.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 25.—Dr. J. N. McCormick, of Bowling Green, president of the international conference of state boards of health, has called a meeting of the executive committee of the conference for Friday next in Indianapolis, to consider the matter of appointing a committee to inspect all the quarantine stations on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts with a view to learning their efficiency in preventing the introduction of cholera into this country.

Some Day.

Some of these days American taxpayers in the smaller cities and towns will find out that it is cheaper to have an efficient police force than to call out the state militia every time a squad of patrolmen is needed.—N. Y. World.

A POLITICAL WAR SONG.

Tune—Yankee Doodle.

BY M. O. WAGGONER.

In eighteen hundred eighty-eight
The "Reps" selected "Beanie,"
Who lived out in the "Hoosier State"
As best among the many.
They wanted him because he'd fight,
And everyone well knew that,
And said they'd have him, wrong or right,
For they must have the Old Hat.

He whipped the Samoans the first round
Down in the Southern Ocean,
Then started for the Cod-fish ground
Creating great commotion.
He was commander of the fleet,
With Jimmie Blaine close by him,
But Johnny Bull got on his feet
So they did not dare try him.

Then Beanie thought he'd have a "S-e-a-l,"
Or he would have a b-a-t-t-l-e,
But Johnny Bull said if you s-t-e-a-l
The bullets round you'll r-a-t-t-l-e;
Then Ben said: Jim, this will not do,
We'll go for the I-t-a-l-i-a-n,
John Bull's too big for me and you
So we will try the s-m-a-l-l man.

But Jim said no, I'll see to that,
That you don't have that thunder;
I understand "Old Grandpa's hat"
And I will keep it under.
So C-h-i-l-e had to fall in line,
As Jimmie Blaine d-e-s-i-r-e-d,
But courage failed them both each time
And not a gun was f-i-r-e-d.

Then Jim "resigned" and started west,
Way out to M-i-n-n-e-ha-ha;
There in "Convention" see who's best
Himself or his old Grand-pa.
But Ben's postmasters knocked him out,
Then Jimmie had a sick spell,
And took first train on eastern route
Calling for Bob Ingersoll.

But General Ben was not content,
And would keep up his fighting,
He talked "protection" where he went
And "Whitelaw" did the writing.
Old "P-i-n-k" and "F-r-i-c-k" commenced the fight
With "Beanie" close behind them,
At Homestead Mills both day and night
The laboring men did find them.

Old Ben has had his hands so full
Lately in fighting laboring men
That he had better drop John Bull
For Cleveland and Stevenson.
Old Beanie with his "R-a-t-t-l-i-n-g" mate
Will need so much "P-r-o-t-e-c-t-i-o-n,"
His war will end in Hoosier State
Next November "E-l-e-c-t-i-o-n."

Toledo, Ohio, August, 1892.

TWO SIDES TO A QUESTION.

The Responsibility of the Railway to the State Which Grants Its Franchise.

No clearer and more logical presentation of the moral ethics in the case of the railway strike has been presented in newspaper columns than the following, from the Chicago Times:

It may pertinent to ask in this connection, Where do the interests of the great public come in?

A strike on any trunk line of railway necessarily involves great inconvenience to the people of the United States. If it is attended by arson and violence inconvenience deepens into terror. Is there no remedy? Yes. Government, noting merely as brute force, orders out the militia. The bayonet and the bullet come to the rescue. The presence of the militia certifies merely the disturbance. Its triumph proclaims no more than that the state backed by an armed force is all-powerful. But is anything done for justice? Might has triumphed, but how as to right? Men without arms are usually defeated in a conflict with men who have arms. But in such triumph the state merely postpones the day of settlement. It has accomplished nothing permanently. The gun in the hand of a militiaman may conquer peace, but it has done nothing more. It has not proclaimed to the people that with order justice has triumphed, and the old sore is left to rankle and to break out anew.

Instead of ordering out its militia when railroad employers and railroad employes conflict, what ought the state do?

The railroad company cannot turn a wheel without the permission of the state. It is a condition precedent to its existence that it have the authority of the state to go on. It proceeds upon the assumption that as a common carrier it will deliver freight and passengers expeditiously and safely. If it fail to do so by reason of a strike it inclines to lay the blame upon its employes. But is the excuse to be accepted? The state cannot know unless it hears the controversy fully. What under present conditions does the state do? Practically it assumes that the striking employes are all wrong and the employing company is all right—an altogether violent assumption—and it orders to the scene of the difficulty thousands of bayonets that, under the order to protect the peace, really proceed to protect the common carrier. The state never stops to consider that as a matter of fact the carrier may be altogether wrong.

With the state as master what ought to be done?

The common carrier is a creature of the state. If it intermit its obligation to deliver freight and passengers quickly and safely it ought to be called upon to explain why it is thus remiss. If its answer is that it has difficulties with its elmpoyes the assumption ought not to be that it is right and they are wrong, because the probabilities are equally as reasonable that it is wrong and they are right.

What, then, ought to be the procedure in a civilized community?

The state ought to have a board authorized to hear and determine the subject matter of controversy, and under no circumstances ought its military arm be ordered into requisition until action under the finding of this board is had. If there is acquiescence there will be need of troops. Nor will there be such need unless the employes perpetrate crime. If the railroad company refuse arbitrament its franchise drawn from the state may be forfeited as a result of its contumacy. If employes reject the finding and refuse peacefully to retire, then the entire power of the state may be properly used against them.

Let us not forget in this controversy that the railroad company is merely the creature of the state and if it fail of service thereto the burden of explanation is upon it. If it fail of regular, orderly service it cannot in justice plead disagreements with its employes unless it is able clearly to establish that such disagreement is not chargeable upon honest, business like administration of the company.

The public grows weary of these repeated controversies between carriers and their employes, controversies attended by violence. If the fault is the carriers' annul the frachise; if the employes', let them be told so authoritatively, and if they persist in interference let the militia deal with them, but not till then.

There can be no inelligent disposition of a matter of this kind unless there is compulsory arbitration.

WANT AN ADVANCE.

Telegraph Operators Ask for More Money.

Baltimore, Aug. 25.—Telegraph operators employed by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad in Baltimore, and who are members of division 17 of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers of the United States, have submitted a schedule to the company for an advance in wages.

The schedule asks for an increase from $50 per month to $65 for the operators employed in the general offices and an increase of from $45 per month to $50 to the men in the block stations.

It is stated that the company is willing to compromise on half they asked for advance, but the operators are not satisfied. The new schedule is to go into effect on September 1. It is claimed by the operators that if they strike a general strike of railroad operators will follow.

COLOR BLINDNESS.

The English Government at Last Take Action.

New York, Aug. 25.—A dispatch from London says: The report of the committee on color vision, appointed by the Royal society, and of which Lord Rayleigh was chairman, was issued to-day. After weighing the evidence which they obtained, the committee unanimously recommends that the board of trade or some other central authority should schedule certain employments in the merchant marine and on railways, the filling of which by persons whose vision is imperfect, either for color or form, or who are ignorant of the names of colors, would involve danger to life and property.

The proper testing, both for color and form, of all candidates for such employments, should, in the view of the committee, be compulsory and entrusted to certificated examiners. The question is of great public importance—what is known as color blindness being much more prevalent than is generally supposed, while the tests for it would appear, in some instances at least, to be not at all adequate.

AT SET OF SUN.

Three rays of light shot upward from the west,
Three golden rays, which lit the land and sea,
And lost themselves above in mystery.

The day had been a day of mist and rain,
The wind had sobbed in pitiful unrest;
And, like a heart within a weary breast,
The sea had throbbed, and Nature seemed to weep;
When suddenly these sun rays lit the plain,
And bathed the sea and soothed the sense of pain;
Lightning the dull gray skies with wondrous light
As golden as the hoard which misers keep.
From point to point I saw the warm life leap,
Until, the whole world lit, the single thought
Was that peace
The world was not less bright
With the on-coming of the gentle night,
For the three beacons of the unseen sun
Within all hearts a work of gladness wrought.
It was the triumph of a fight long fought
With misery and gloom and sad despair,
And light had conquered all as day was done,
And hearts assailed by Doubt were still unwon.

For these three rays of glory were to me
The answer to the often whispered prayers;
One Faith, one Hope, the other Love most fair;
The rays of God which light all misery.

Judge Giegerich, in the court of common pleas, in New York, the other day was naturalizing an Italian, and, according to the formula prescribed, asked the man if he was attached to the principles of the constitution. "I touch nothin'," was the reply. Shortly afterward the judge was naturalizing a Frenchman. He asked the witness if he could vouch for the man's good moral character. "Well," said the witness, "he is a republican, but I think he will vote the democratic ticket."

RIGHTED AT LAST.

In the "time of the slavery" in Russia, under the reign of the Czar Nicholas I., the grandfather of the present reigning czar, there lived on one of her estates near the city of Novgorod, the Countess Olga Worobjoff.

Her young son Wladimir, an officer in the Kirassir regiment, then lived in Zarskoe-Selo—the summer residence of the czar.

He was now in his 22d year, and being the only heir to his father's vast estate, he decided to leave his regiment and take charge of his father's property.

The day following his return home being Sunday, he and his mother attended church in the little village chapel. On the way to the chapel his mother told him that he would receive a very agreeable surprise by hearing the sweet voice of a young girl who was one of their slaves. She said she accidentally discovered the wonderful voice of this young girl and had it cultivated.

The count having always had a great love for music, found that her ability as a singer reached far beyond his expectations. After the services he naturally wished to see this young girl singer, and his acquaintance with her soon turned to love; in a few weeks he decided to make her his wife.

When he informed his mother of his intentions she was astonished, and told him under no circumstances would she give her consent to the marrigae. But the young count replied that he would marry the girl even though he did not receive her consent.

When the countess saw that she could not prevent the marriage she decided to take desperate measures. She gave secret orders to the clergyman of the little chapel to have the girl on a certain evening married to another of her slaves.

The young count learned of his mother's intentions and by putting on the clothes of the slave was married to the girl without the clergyman discovering the deception. The marriage was witnessed by some of the village people.

The clergyman registered the name of the slaves, but this did not alter the fact that Count Worobjoff was the lawful husband of the singer.

The next morning he informed his mother of what had happened.

She was prostrated on hearing what he had done, and was confined to her bed for several days. She soon realized that she was about to die, and as her love for her son had turned to hate, she informed her relatives that at her son's death they were to look in the church register and there they would find something of great importance to them. Soon after this the Countess Olga died.

Count Wladimir lived happily with his wife for four years, being blessed with two boys, but was then taken suddenly ill and died.

The young countess, hearing by accident of the act of her mother-in-law and knowing that if she remained at the castle she and her children would again be made slaves to her husband's relatives, was obliged to leave her home immediately with her two children. She went to St. Petersburg, and rented rooms in an out-of-way locality.

An old lawyer was living at the same house, who noticing her grief, decided to ask her about her troubles and offer his services. At first she was not inclined to talk of her trouble, but finally she decided to tell him her story.

After hearing her story the lawyer informed her that he thought he could settle all her troubles for her.

He first bought a suit of clothes to represent an old-fashioned Russian merchant and a good quality of wax candles.

Disguised in this way he went directly to the village clergyman and offered to sell him the candles at a very low price. It is the custom in Russia for the parishioners to buy candles at the church, light them and leave them at the altar.

The clergyman was pleased to get the candles so reasonably and purchased them at once.

Some Russian priests are very fond of whisky and the lawyer treated him very liberally to it in order to make him more talkative.

Finally the priest told him the whole story of the Count Wladimir's marriage.

The lawyer pretended not to believe it, and said that whole story was a joke. Without saying a word the priest went into the chapel and brought out the church record of the marriage.

The lawyer noted the page and closed the book.

But as soon as the clergyman left the room on an errand, the lawyer took out a knife as sharp as a razor, and in a skillful manner scratched out the name of the slave husband from the church book and put in the same slave's name again.

Soon after the return of the priest the lawyer left the place and went directly to St. Petersburg, where he brought the case before the senate, the highest court in Russia.

When the count's relatives received the summons from the court they were pleased as they now would be able to bring the matter to an end.

After all the witnesses had been examined the evidence showed that the young countess, formerly a slave was indeed married to the count, Wladimir Worobjoff, and that they lived for four years happily together. But on the other side the priest declared he was not able to remember whether the bridegroom was the count or the slave, but as the church book showed clearly the name of the slave instead of the count the judges were inclined to settle the case in favor of the relatives.

As is the custom, they asked the lawyer if he had anything further to say, and in reply he said that all he wanted was to see the name in the church book.

When the book was produced the lawyer appeared to be completely overcome, but in a minute, holding the page to the light, he exclaimed:

"Gentlemen, there has been a forgery committed."

The sensation that the lawyer's words created was intense. It took the judges but a moment to see that the church book had been tampered with, and that a forgery had been committed, and it appeared evident to them that only the hatred of the old countess or the selfishness of the relatives could have caused it.

The judges at once decided in favor of the young countess, Catharina Worobjoff, and that the estate belonged to her and her children, and the relatives were obliged to vacate the estate immediately.—Boston Globe.

AFTER THE WABASH.

The Little Wizard's Son Figuring on a Big Deal.

He Wants a Tail for the Family Kite.

George is Sweeping Wall Street for Proxies to Use at the Meeting in September.

New York, Aug. 25.—There have been signs for several days that the "Little Wizard's" son is up to some game in Wabash, and that possibly he intends to repeat the stroke of policy that he made in Union Pacific, when Mr. Charles Francis Adams suddenly found himself out of a job.

Mr. Adams was confident that he had enough proxies to carry the election and a few to throw away. Mr. Boissevaine, who was running the show, was even more confident than Mr. Adams. It so happened that George J. Gould made the last canvass for proxies and general housecleaning.

The "Little Wizard" put his own outfit in charge of that great system, and thereupon it was subordinated to the interests of the Missouri Pacific, which he practically owns entire. The Missouri Pacific thrives as never before for a time.

There are now signs that George J. Gould wants to run the Wabash railroad. For what purpose is not quite clear, but the reason is not far to seek. Some one whose identity has been pretty well established has been in the street for a couple of weeks trying to buy all the Wabash stock that he could and soliciting proxies very earnestly. This gentleman has been to the recognized brokers of the "Little Wizard," George Gould has been caught in the same identical offices at the same time. There is still time for active work before the annual meeting takes place on September 13, and probably the main strokes will be left until the last moment as in the case of the Union Pacific coup.

So far as known no dissatisfaction has been expressed against the present management. President O. D. Ashley has been efficient and was supposed to be approved by the "Little Wizard." Colonel Ashley's associates, James F. How and Cyrus J. Lawrence, are both conservative and respected gentlemen. The "Wizard's" following on the board of directors consisted of Russell Sage, Sidney Dillon and George J. Gould. This is a pretty good showing considering that the "Wizard" has only 83,000 out of 520,000 shares.

It is understood that Col. Ashley is assured the support of a fair majority of the stockholders, but Mr. Adams thought the same in reference to the Union Pacific railroad. Col. Ashley said yesterday that he was aware something was up, but he knew of no apparent opposition on the part of George Gould. He had ample opportunity to find it out, he thought, if it existed.

It is expected that George will succeed his father as president of the Missouri Pacific at the next election. Probably for years to come this property will be used by the family as a speculative property because they are in it so deep that they cannot get out of it without great sacrifice. The Wabash at present is a feeder of the Missouri Pacific, but it is also a competitor between St. Louis and Kansas City and other points. The Wabash might be managed so that the Missouri Pacific would thrive while the Wabash wouldn't come any nearer to paying dividends.

It was hinted that traffic was diverted from the Union Pacific to the Missouri Pacific under the "Little Wizard's" management. Probably nothing so barefaced would be done in the case of the Wabash, but it could be managed so as to benefit the Missouri Pacific. A mere majority of the board of directors would suffice for control. The outcome of this bid for proxies will be watched with interest. It may be that the present executive officers will not be disturbed, but a majority of the board in the hands of an opposition would strip these officers of their authority.

It is understood that two of the directors against whom the opposition is aimed are Messrs. How and McHarg. One of the gentlemen who is supporting the present management said that they now have a majority of stock pledged, but they cannot tell where they will stand when the election comes off if proxies are bought in the way the Wormser holdings were secured for the Union Pacific meeting.

BRIDGET SULLIVAN

May Yet Be as Famous as the Donaghue Girl.

Important Testimony Brought Out in the Now Celebrated Borden Case.

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 25.—It has come to the knowledge of the public to-day that Bridget Sullivan had, long before the tragedy at the Borden home, confided to intimate friends certain facts which leave little doubt that there had been a constant warfare going on in the Second street house. Mrs. Borden and her stepdaughter were on anything but pleasant terms with each other, although the former tried in every way to establish pleasant relations.

Lizzie showed more antipathy toward the elder woman than did her sister. It is supposed that at the inquest Bridget Sullivan delivered a great deal of important information of this character, and furnished the government broad grounds on which to base the theory of a motive.

Another new feature of the case is a letter which Lizzie wrote to her sister Emma the Tuesday before the murder. The first knowledge of this letter came out at Lizzie's examination at the inquest in reply to the question:

"Had you ever noticed any suspicious persons about the house on the day of the tragedy?"

She said she had not on that day but had on Monday night before and had written an account of the incident to her sister Emma.

Inquiry developed the fact that on Wednesday Emma did get a letter from Lizzie in which the latter refers to her anxiety over something which happened on Monday night.

When she was returning home from a call she noticed a man in the back yard just as she opened the side gate. He disappeared on discovering her.

After entering the house, Lizzie wrote, she was so disturbed over what she had seen that she went to one of the windows in her room commanding the yard, and watched. She saw a man who looked like the one she had seen already, moving about but it was quite dark and she could not give any description of him.

Emma Borden showed this letter to friends in Fair Haven with whom she was visiting when she received it and then destroyed it, she says.

It also turns out that the letter which Lizzie Borden sent to her Marion friends and which was received by them on the day of the murder was also destroyed because it contained reference to something which, in the opinion of the young woman to whom it was sent, might in the light of subsequent events be misconstrued.

Some of the speculating ones are now wondering if that something was not this story of the suspicious man whom Lizzie told her sister was about the Borden house Monday night.

MORE TROUBLE.

This Time in a Georgia Coal Mine.

An Effort to Release Four Hundred Life Convicts—Troops Asked For.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 25.—At 1 p. m. yesterday Gov. Northern received a telegram for the superintendent of the Dade coal mines, near Chattanooga, stating that he feared an attack from Tennessee miners, and asking for arms and ammunition.

The miners were massing at Whiteside, Tenn. The Dade Coal Mines company works 400 Georgia convicts, all life-time prisoners. Ex-Senator Joseph E. Brown is president of the company. If any attempt to liberate the convicts is made, the troops here are ready to go forward at a moment's notice.

CROOKEDNESS CHARGED.

New York, Aug. 25.—A bogus banking scheme was unearthed by the police at No. 10 Wall street, and as a result W. H. Roberts, the president; Neil McCallum, the secretary, and Fred Stirtz were arrested and locked up at police headquarters. It seems that the scheme was to buy goods throughout the country and give the bogus banks as a reference.

CANADA TAKES ACTION.

She Will Pay the Canal Tolls Herself

And Her Ships Will Not Be Hurt—Canucks Dissatisfied With the Washington Treaty.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 25.—It has been decided that the government will reimburse the Canadian shippers for this season for any loss they may sustain through the imposition of tolls on freight going to a Canadian port through St. Mary's canal.

A meeting of the cabinet was held yesterday to discuss the outlook and the probable effect of President Harrison's proclamation. A member of the cabinet stated last night that no attempt at retalition will be made in the direction of imposing discriminatory tolls on American vessels passing through the Welland canal, as has been suggested by some of the government press.

It was further decided to carry to the notice of the British government the absurdity of continuing the Washington treaty in force, in view of the fact that it has been denuded of every clause by which any special privileges were conceded to Canadian citizens, and urge the abrogation of the treaty at the earliest possible moment.

MARKETS OF THE WORLD

What People Bay and What They Pay.

Quotations From All Business Centers.

The Grain Trading All Over the United States—The Cause and Effect As Viewed by Experts.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 157,552 bushels, and at five other western points 1,084,266 bushels as the movement from the five the corresponding Thursday in 1891 the receipts at same points were 1,006,367 bushels as the movement from the five was northwetern wheat, leaving 768,192 buhels as the movement from the five other ports against 1,084,266 bushels.

The export clearances yesterday from Atlantic ports were wheat 355,373 bushels and flour to an aggregate of 425,000 bushels.

English markets are dull and lower for wheat and corn.

The American Wheat Crop.—Since last Easter we have contended that our wheat crop of 1892 would not exceed 500,000,000, unless the northwest made another bumper crop. June 11th, commenting on the government report, we said: "There is no expectation of a yield corresponding to last year. If we get 80 per cent. of that production—489,000,000, we shall equal our expectations. Why? Because the acreage is spotted—it is not a uniform growth—growth of straw is more than natural, and large growth of straw does not bring forth long heads of wheat."

July 14th, we note as follows:

"The agriculturalists in the wheat pits of the exchanges, who have produced from 525 to 565 millions of wheat in this country, this year, are beginning to discover a possibility that the crop will aggregate under 500,000,000, unless the northwest hump itself to an extent not now probable, and if the least adverse condition occurs up there the crop will be light. We continue to assume that the wheat crop of 1892 is not likely to aggregate, in the same average weight per bushel of the crop of 1891, over 500,000,000 bushels."

To-day the outlook justifies a lower estimate, but there seems to be wheat enough of both crops, east and west, for all purposes. We have apparently raised all the wheat the world needs, and a greater yield would have proved a calamity.

Our bulletin board to-day says that cholera has occasioned several failures of grain houses abroad. History repeats itself.

The wheat markets in this country opened weak and declined about 1-2c. At the lowest point and when a further break was expected bullish news came in. Prime report of wheat yields in quantity and quality encouraged buying. Reports of decreased offerings by farmers. Increased sales for export in New York, and last, but not least some ridiculous wax news. All this was too much for the bears and prices turned upon them and advanced 3-4c at Chicago and less in New York.

Corn also opened weak and declined, but regained the loss and closed a shade higher than yesterday.

In New York September wheat closed at 81c, a gain of 1-8c. September corn at 59 3-8c, a gain of 1-2c. September oats at 39 1-4c, a gain of 1-8c.

In Chicago August wheat closed at 75 1-4 and September at 75 5-8, a gain of 3-8. September corn closed at 52 1-8, a gain of 3-8. September oats, 34 3-8 and 34 1-2, a gain of 1-8 to 1-4.

In Toledo there was a fair degree of activity in the market for wheat futures, with some fluctuations in prices occasioned by the little influences named herein. On the regular board opening deals were at a loss of 1-8 to 1-4 and December made a further decline of 1-4, when market became firmer and advanced from lowest point 3-4, closing prices showing a gain over yesterday of 3-4 on cash and August, 1-2 on October and 3-8 on December. On the call September sold at 77 5-8. On the regular board August sold at 77 3-4 to 77 5-8 and closed at 78 1-2 sellers: September at 77 1-4 and closed at 77 7-8; October at 78 1-4, closing at 78 1-2; December at 80 1-8 to 79 7-8 and closed at 80 5-8.

Cash wheat was in good demand, but the sales were largely of No. 3. No. 2 was not freely offered, selling at 77 3-4@78c, and at close 78 1-2c was the market. No. 3 soft sold at 70@69 1-2c and to 70c. At close 70 1-4@70 1-2c was the market. On the call August sold at 69 5-8c and September at 69 3-4c. Sales of 100,000 bu. No. 4 soft at 64c, and in L. S. at 64 1-2c. Rejected No. 1 at 65 1-2c; No. 2 at 53, 52 and 50c; smutty at 53@62c; No. 2 white at 73c; No. 3 at 69c.

They were also found to be the men who were selling a large quantity of carpenter tools in second hand stores. The tools were recovered and are at the police station awaiting the owners. MORLEY'S CONTEST.

London, Aug. 25.—There is great excitement in New Castle-on-Tyne to-day over the election made necessary by the castle, are giving Mr. Morley united post of chief secretary for Ireland. The Irish nationalists resident in New Castle, are giving Mr. Morley united support without regard to factional divisions. The tory and liberal unionists are giving a heavy vote for Pandeli Ralli, Mr. Morley's opponent.

MONUMENTAL ASSOCIATION

Hold a Purely Business Session in Memorial Hall.

Historic Spots in the Maumee Valley to be Photographed—Ex-President Hayes Present.

The annual meeting of the Maumee Valley Monumental association was announced to open at 10 o'clock at Memorial hall, but owing to the tardy arrivals of several of the officers it was 11 o'clock before ex-President Hayes, president of the association, called the meeting to order.

On account of the Maumee Valley Pioneer association having so recently held its annual meeting, it was decided to call this association together solely for the transaction of business, and after the reading of the minutes of the last meeting by Secretary J. K. Hamilton, the special business before the association, which was the filling of vacancies on the board of directors caused by the death of J. Austin Scott, Hon. Asher Cook and F. J. Randall, and the expiration of the terms of Judge Dunlap and Joel Foot, was disposed of by the chair appointing a committee of three consisting of Chairman R. B. Mitchell, Mr. D. W. H. Howard and Mr. Young, to name three gentlemen to fill these vacancies. After deliberation, the chairman presented the following names: Judge Dunlap and Joel Foot to succeed themselves, Mr. Frank J. Scott to fill the vacancy caused by the death of J. Austin Scott; Justin H. Tyler to succeed Asher Cook; Chas. F. Muhler, of Ft. Wayne, to succeed F. J. Randall. The secretary was authorized to cast a ballot in favor of the election of these gentlemen.

The next business was the reading of the treasurer's report, by Treasurer R. B. Mitchell, as follows:

Receipts—Balance on hand September 24, 1890, $36.58; April 7, 1891, received from J. K. Hamilton, $1.00; received at Put-in-Bay, September 10, 1791, for membership, $14; total, $51.58. Expenditures—September 10, 1891, paid to C. M. Clay $30.20; J. K. Hamilton, $14.20; for postage, printing and hotel bill, $44.40; balance on hand August 25, 1892, $7.18.

The secretary next, read beautiful memorials to Hon. Asher Cook and J. Austin Scott, deceased members.

Mr. A. A. Graham, of Columbus, secretary of the State Historical society, was then introduced, and made a short address on the subject of making a historical display at the world's fair. The Historical society has obtained an appropriation of $2,000 for that purpose, and it is desired that the Monumental society co-operate with them and scheme to photograph the battle-fields and other historic spots in the Maumee valley, and exhibit them at the Chicago exposition. The association having no means, it was thought practicable to appoint a committee of five or more to place the matter before the board of trade and citizens in this city, and in other towns in the valley, and Dr. S. F. Forbes offered a resolution to that effect, which after a long discussion, participated in by W. H. Griffin, D. W. H. Howard, Rev. H. A. Thompson, of Westerville, Justin Tyler, of Napoleon, Mr. Graham, and others, was adopted, and the chair appointed the following gentlemen to act on the committee: Chairman Dr. S. F. Forbes; Frank J. Scott, C. P. Griffin, D. B. Smith and Guido Marx.

D. W. H. Howard, one of the honored members of the association, made an earnest plea for the preservation of the historic places in the Maumee valley, and the unmarked graves of the nation's heroes.

The rock monument erected to the memory of the Indian warrior Turkeyfoot, is the only one of the kind in existence in the valley. He would urge that the congress of the United States do at least as much for the men who have died for this nation as the Indians have done for this old warrior. The executive board then held a short session and re-elected the old officers as follows: President, R. B. Hayes; first vice president, Judge Cately; second, R. S. Robertson, Ft. Wayne; third, Joel Foot, Wood county. The meeting was very interesting for a strictly business meeting.

Among those present, not taking an active part in the deliberations were, Mr. and Mrs. Van Rensalaer, of Maumee; Mr. and Mrs. Binkley, Maumee; H. H. Napeer, A. Fairchild, Swanton; Judge Potter, and many others.

The executive board, consisting of Messrs. Howard, Mitchell, and Hamilton, will fix the place of the next meeting at a special session.

The object of the association is clearly set forth in the following extract from a bill passed by congress two years ago:

Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives, that the secretary of war is hereby authorized and directed to purchase and accept donations of the title to the site or sites, or such portions thereof as he may designate, of the following-named military forts, battle fields and burying grounds in the Maumee valley, upon such terms as he may deem reasonable, the title thereto to be taken in the name of the United States, namely, Fort Industry, Fort Meigs, Fort Miami, Fort Defiance, Fort Wayne, the battle field of Fallen Timber and the parcel of ground on Put-in-Bay island, in Lake Erie, whereon is interred the remains of certain American soldiers, sailors and marines who served in the war of 1812 against England.

That the secretary of war is further authorized and directed to inclose the said site or sites, or portions thereof with a suitable inclosure, when title is secured to any thereof, and to erect upon each thereof such monument, monuments, or commorative tablets as may be suitable to properly preserve the memory of the historical events therewith connected and to perpetuate the memory of the men who died thereon in the service of their country in any of the wars of the United States or are buried thereon.

The Maumee organization proposes perfecting and carrying out in all its details the projects outlined above.

RALLY OF EPWORTHIANS.

Third Annual Convention Held Yesterday.

Interesting Addresses, Papers and Reports, and Election of Officers for the Ensuing Year.

The third annual convention of the Epworth League of the Toledo district was held at Perrysburg yesterday, and proved a most enjoyable occasion. The church was artistically decorated and reflected credit on the committee.

The meeting was opened with devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. P. P. Pope and J. C. Shaw. Mr. Wm. Barton made an address of welcome, and J. E. Wetmore, of Swanton, responded briefly.

Rev. G. B. Wiltsie, a former pastor of Perrysburg, but now of the Delaware district, was present and spoke of the excellent work being accomplished by the League in his district.

Mr. W. E. Sponsler, of Fostoria, and president of the Central Ohio Conference Epworth League, made a brief address in regard to the work, after which the convention adjourned and proceeded to the church parlors where a bounteous dinner was served by the Perrysburg League and their friends to those in attendance.

One hundred and seventy-five delegates were present, representing 25 charges in the Toledo district and a membership of 1,295 Epworthians and 141 Y. P. S. C. E.

At the afternoon session, with slight variation, the program, as published in the Bee, was carried out. While each of the addresses and papers were excellent, those of Mrs. George F. Hirth on "Social Life" and Miss May Snow on "Junior League Work" were especially practical. Dr. A. J. Fish, of St. John's M. E. church, with his accustomed grace, won the admiration of the convention by his pointed and instructive way of conducting the question drawer. His remarks were made interesting by the occasional introduction of some mirthful anecdote, which serves to impress the truth more fully and hold the attention of all.

The choir rendered excellent music, after which Rev. S. D. Hussinpiller made an address on "How shall I be a successful member of the Epworth League?" It is impossible to more than hint at the brilliant thoughts presented. "To be a successful Epworthian it is necessary: 1st, to think a great deal of one's self," said he. "Not to be an egotist, but to believe that you are divinely appointed to be something and to do something for Christ and the church. Each one, however humble, under this inspiration can do something. One who can shake hands, can touch hands with down-trodden souls for Christ. Whoever does God's work is great. Look at great ones and say, I too, can be great for God. Epworth work presents a field as great as the mind can compass.

"Second. Be greatly interested in literary work. Six dollars will secure a larger library than many of the early classic writers owned. Give the mind something on which to feed.

"Third. What you do, do well, be prompt, do the best you can. An uncultured sailor, who when converted, rose in meeting and said, 'I can't say much, nor as it ought to be said, but, Hurrah for God,' touched his hearers by his earnestness and impressed them with doing the best he could.

"Fourth. Be a power in your home—in your church. If you are a Baptist be a Baptist, but be loyal wherever you may be."

The speaker had nearly finished his address, when a telegram was received, which stated, that, owing to the fog the steamer Burt would be unable to reach Perrysburg to bring back the delegates. As there were only three minutes before train-time, the only means by which the delegates could reach Toledo that night, the convention adjourned instantaneously, and 60 breathless Epworthians boarded the train.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Rev. P. P. Pope, presiding elder; first vice president, W. J. Herron, Toledo; second vice president, Miss Helen Pray, Waterville, O.; third vice president, A. B. Hood, Toledo; fourth vice president, Miss May Snow, Toledo; secretary, J. L. Stark, Toledo; treasurer, Miss Clara Damchroder, Elmore; board of control, Dr. A. J. Fish, Toledo; Rev. J. C. Shaw, Perrysburg, and Rev. D. F. Helms, Wauseon.

The following resolutions were adopted:

"Resolved, That the program committee be requested to provide two sessions of the district league each year.

"Resolved, That we esteem the Epworth Herald to be indispensable to the fullest understanding of the league spirit and work, and for that reason ought to find a place in every family where the league has a representative. To this end the Third V. P. are respectfully requested to use their best endeavors.

"Resolved, That we cordially invite the Y. P. S. C. E. of our district to become Epworth Leagues, not that we love the endeavor societies less, but the union of Methodism more.

"Resolved, That hearty and sincere thanks are hereby extended to the league of Perrysburg for their cordial reception and most generous entertainment of the convention; that we thank the officers of the district league for their efficient work during the past year, and careful attention to league interests; and that we express our high appreciation of the music by the choir, the duet, and the solo with which Mrs. Russell Williams favored the convention."

The board of control will set the time and place of the next meeting. Geneva, Waterville and West Toledo each present a request to entertain the next convention.

The steamer Wallace took to Orchard Grove yesterday the Calvary Sunday school, the East Toledo Baptist Sunday school, Maumee Sunday school and the Scotch Ridge society—handling all without accident, and all having a good time.

A GIRL BOAT.

That is the Only Kind You Can Find at Summer Resorts—And Why.

You will find no good rowing boats at any of the seaside resorts—the prominent ones, said a man. He had been hunting all over for one, and finally complained to a proprietor of boats, "You have no speed craft at all."

"Naw," returned the man; "there ain't no call for them. Every one wants girl boats down here."

Do you know what a girl boat is? You see you take her out in it. You don't want speed. No one is going to chase you.

All you want to do is to hunt out some little retired nook. Once there, the only important thing is that the boat should float; that it should float in spite of difficulties; that it should float even if all the weight is at one end; that it should float though one part of the weight gets up and marches itself to the other end with no warning to the boat at all; that it should float though all the weight in the boat hangs way over the gunwale, and this also without warning.

It must be a boat to go drifting—that is going to stay just where you stop it. A fellow does not want a boat to go drifting out into the stream just when he is asking the one girl in the world whether she thinks she can love him a little; it is so interrupting.

It should be a boat with nice high sides; a fellow doesn't want to get a ducking just because a girl makes a little fuss about being kissed.

It should be painted like every other boat. There is nothing more annoying than to feel that Maude, on shore, can look through a spyglass at just the very boat you are in. It is uncomfortable, too, for the girl who is with you, and it gives the chaperone an unfair advantage.

I knew a fellow once—young Smart—who used to take two boats and a man. One boat had a bright red band painted on it. In this boat he used to put his girl while the chaperone looked on.

The other boat was just like any other boat, and in it the man waited around the point. Thither young Smart would row his girl and there they would change boats.

Then the man would row the red-striped craft out in the bay in view of the chaperone, just far off enough, of course, so that she would feel the red stripe sufficient evidence. Then young Smart would row somewhere else.

But that is going to a lot of trouble, all for a little sense of freedom, too. Chaperones overdo the thing, and that is just the reason you can't get any thing but "girl boats" at the resorts.—Clara Belle in Cincinnati Enquirer.

OUT OF HIS SIGHT.

He was cantankerous that morning, and was taking it out on his pretty typewriter.

"Everything is in confusion on this desk," he said, testily.

"It always is," she responded, meekly. "You insist that you don't want anything disturbed there."

"Well, I don't want my papers disturbed but I don't want this sheet of postage stamps left here."

"Where shall I put them?" she inquired, demurely, as she took them up.

"Don't ask me so many questions!" he snapped. "Put them away anywhere out of my sight."

"Very well, sir," she cooed as softly as a dove; and, giving them a swipe, fore and aft, with her pretty red tongue, she stuck the sheet on his bald head and walked out to chase a new job.—Puck.

ROYAL RAKES.

Some of Their Fads, Their Passions and Their Unpleasant Cranky Notions.

Among the living royalties who are konwn to have kicked over the moral traces in the heyday of their youth are the Prince of Wales of England and Leopold II., king of the Belgians., says the San Francisco Chronicle. Wales, strange as it may appear, owes most of his popularity among his future subjects to the fact that he was a wild buck in the days of his adolescence. It seems as if his liasons had proved to the English people that he had the blood of a "sport" and a thoroughbred gentleman in his veins. The dear prince loved the ladies so much, don't yer know, and princes, don't yer understand, are permitted to do things that in the common herd would be considered unpardonable sins. His patronage of Lady Mordaunt and of other married women was winked at even by rigidly virtuous people. When the Mordaunt divorce case came on for trial, Wales was named as co-respondent, but the evidence against him was pigeonholed away, for no lawyer would be disloyal enough to his "queen and country" to attempt to prove that the heir to the British throne was an adulterer. Wales' gallant escapades in Paris, in the course of which he had no scruples in tampering with other men's preserves, tickled hte French palate and made him an especial favorite on the boulevards, where, of course, morality is considered more or less a mark of crass stupidity. In or about ten years ago Victoria's eldest son sowed the last of his wild oats, so far as his amorous pranks are concerned, but he still cherishes his inveterate passion for gambling, which, however, he now indulges in strictly under the rose, since the recent baccarat disclosures brought him somewhat unpleasantly into public notice.

His cousin, Leopold of Belgium, though long since a grandfather, has only quite recently given over the role of a Launcelot du Lac among the frail Genevieves of the city of Brussels. The king was not ostentatious in his conduct. He did not parade his vices. He cloaked them over with a mantle of respectability and thus enjoyed in public a widespread reputation for virtue until Mr. Stead, late of the Pall Mall Gazette and at present editor of the Review of Reviews, exposed in his "Tribute to the Modern Babylon" his majesty's peculiar weakness for Irish girls with blue eyes and raven hair—unique damsels, for whom his majesty is said to have had an unbounded admiration, probably on account of the rarity of that particular breed. In many cases Leopold II. is no longer considered a Simple Simon or a paragon of virtue by his subjects.

Louis, the late king of Bavaria, is facile princeps in the list of modern royal cranks. His chief fad was, however, one of a high order of merit. A poet at heart and an ardent lover of music, he lived in a paradise of his own creation and actually revelled in the harmony of sounds. One of his less commendable crazes was his insurmountable aversion to women. The sight of a female gown had the same effect on him as a red rag would have on a bull. Women were known to fall in love with the woman-hater and to pursue him with their attentions, actuated as they were by some strange fatuity, but he always repelled their addresses and never tolerated even a lady help in his palace at Munich. Such were evidently the reasons that prompted his people to give him the unique title of "Virgin King."

One of the fads of King George of Greece is a periodical desire to abdicate in favor of his son. This desire comes on him with the regularity of clockwork, and when it does his majesty lifts up his crown and lays it at the feet of his heir, the Duke of Sparta, who, of course, declines the proffered bauble. The king will probably continue to resign till death accepts his resignation and ends the comedy. King George's wife, Queen Olga, had a fad for flowers, and insists against her doctor's advice on keeping garlands of fresh roses in her bed-chamber night and day.

The Duke of Edinburgh, the brother of Wales, is a violin crank. Like Nero, he dearly loves a fiddle, and carries it about with him wherever he goes. He fancies himself a master hand in manipulating that instrument—a second Paganini, in fact, who could create a soul and fashion a world of harmony out of its strings. All his friends fall victims to this mania, but, of course, they must listen to the royal fiddler and applaud him heartily at the close of every morceau which he chooses to inflict on them. Among themselves, however, they value him at his proper worth. One of them went the length of saying on one occasion that if his royal highness hadn't a cent, and did not know where to get one, he could not earn salt for his porridge out of his violin. So much for the sincerity of courtiers.

The fads of the emperor of Germany are the most startling of any. He believes that he is God's viceroy on earth. He is continually using such phrases as the following, in private: "God and I wish that Germany should flourish;" "With God's aid and mine we will conquer all our enemies." Such blasphemy comes appropriately from the lips of a conceited monarch who may be the last of European sovereigns to assure the world that they rule their respective states by right divine.

The Vienna newspapers report that an unusual phenomenon occurred on Tuesday, August 2, at Trieste, an enormous waterspout being observed in the harbor between the Giuseppino Mole and the lighthouse. An omnibus passing along the quay at the time was lifted in the air and overturned, seven passengers being injured. Several tramway wagons were also thrown off the line, and some buildings were injured. The phenomenon, which resembled an immense dark gray pillar of cloud, lasted ten minutes, and made the atmosphere so dark that it was found necessary to resort to artificial light in the houses in the vicinity.

LAKE SHIPPING.

Figures That Will Give an Inlander Some Idea of Its Importance.

Some idea of the extent of the lake ship-building interest may be gleamed from the statement that in the year 1890 there was built on the great lakes forty per cent. more steam tonnage than was built on the entire Atlantic and Pacific seaboards in the same time. Furthermore, the average vessel built during the same period on the seaboard. Mr. W.A. Livingtou, who is referred to by ship-builders all on the seaboard. Mr. W. A. Livingston, who is referred to by ship-builders all along the lakes as one of the most careful statisticans of their interests, declares that there is fifty-seven per cent. more steam tonnage on the great lakes in the class between 1,000 and 2,500 tons than there is on the entire seaboard. The figures he gives are:

	Vessels.	Tons
Atlantic and Gulf Coast...	157	237,105
Pacific Coast............	28	43,001
Northern Lakes..........	272	439,787
Western Rivers..........	22	28,588
Total	479	748,481

The average size of the sail vessels, says Mr. Livingston, on our entire seaboard is 128 gross registered tons per vessel, as against 258 tons on the lakes. The steamers on the seaboard average 299 tons, as against 428 tons on the lakes. Or, taking all the vessels except the canal-boats, the average size on the entire seaboard is 165 tons, against 349 tons on the lakes. The estimated value of th eAmerican lake marine is $62,000,000, as against $4,300,000 estimated value of the Canadian lake marine. Furthermore, it is known that to-day more traffic passes through the St. Mary's Falls canal than through the Suez canal. These statements are deemed worth making in order to dispel all possible doubt as to the extent of the marine intrests on the lakes. With very few exceptions all steamers now plying on the lakes were built at lake ports.—Harper's Weekly.
